Record Heat Continues; 63 Deaths

FARM ANIMALS PERISH, CROPS BEING BURNED

Unofficial Marks of 112 to 118 Reported in Various State Districts

MIDWEST IS SWELTERING

Death List Continues to Grow in States of Central U. S. Region

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The searing heat of the day has held Wisconsin five days today appeared to be tightening, crippling, in that operation, industry and agriculture. Meanwhile, the six-day death toll reached 63.

With reports of factories, foundries and offices closing in all parts of the state, came news of crops beginning to scorch and farm animals dying.

As unofficial thermometer recordings hovered around 100 degrees at many points, yesterday, the federal weather bureau held slight hope for relief. The oft-repeated "possibly local thunder-showers" was printed on today's weather card.

The day opened warm throughout the state. It was cloudy in Milwaukee, and residents were saved the beating sun, but the humidity made an early morning temperature of around 90 seem warmer. Other points reported these temperatures between 7 and 8 o'clock a. m.:

Chippewa Falls 98, Superior 75, Wausau 82, Fond du Lac 83, Appleton 90, Rhinelander 90, Wisconsin Rapids 88, Stevens Point 90, Marinette 83, Ashland 83, Madison 90, Green Bay 92.

Even reports of sweltering temperatures during the night, and almost all added a word about "record-breaking heat yesterday."

Even Superior, where spring-like temperatures between 60 and 70 degrees have prevailed, reported a warm night and anticipations of the "hottest summer."

Ten More Deaths
Ten deaths reported early today were added to the five-day total of 38 completed last night.

Walter Sachs, farmer in the town of Eaton, Manitowoc, was overcame yesterday while pitching hay at his place.

Freddie Klemm, 70, Caladonia, Waukegan, died after suffering from heart prostration for three days.

Theodore Semrau, 45, Madison, died in a hospital last night after being taken ill yesterday with the heat.

Seven Deaths In Appleton And Vicinity

City Continues to Parch as Mercury Again Reaches 100 Degrees

Parboiled and parched, Appleton continues to suffer with the rest of the nation in the heat wave which is daily taking hundreds of deaths and causing enormous property loss. Seven deaths in Appleton and vicinity last night and today were directly attributed to the heat, and hundreds of men were thrown out of work today when a number of mills shut down because of the heat and low water. Prostrations from heat are frequent, and doctors offices are kept busy administering ice packs to those who temporarily succumbed to the intense heat. Loss of sleep and appetite is slowly lowering the resistance of many. No relief is predicted for the next 24 hours, except in the extreme north portion of the state.

By 1:30 today the thermometer had reached yesterday's high mark, 100 and was due to go higher. At 10 o'clock this morning it was 94, at 11 o'clock 95, and at 12 o'clock, 99. Monday's lowest temperature was 75.

Walter Sachs, 51, town of Eaton, Manitowoc, and Miss Elizabeth Kora, 52, town of Harrison, were sunstruck during the hottest portion of Monday, between 3 and 4 o'clock while pitching hay on their farms. Both died last night.

The death of Mrs. Herman Helm, 92, who was found dead in bed at the home of her son, Edward, at Weyauwega, last night, is attributed to the heat, and Mrs. Fred Kemp, 70, Caladonia, Waukegan, died Sunday after being prostrated with the heat three days previous.

Stricken In Field
George Bastien, 71, died late Monday morning at his home in the town of St. Lawrence, Waupaca, after collapsing from the heat while cultivating a field at the farm of his sister, Mrs. John Murray.

Shall Baldwin, 44, was prostrated at his home at Symco, Waupaca, Monday evening, and died a short time later. Julius Mazenski, 31, Manawa, was overcome this morning while mowing in a field near his home. He died several hours later.

More men were overcome by heat last night at the Wisconsin Cannery company plant at Appleton Junction. They were Len Root, 1504 W. Lawrence-st., and Ralph Hamilton, 1624 W. Lawrence-st. Root was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital. He has partially recovered, however, and at noon today physicians said he had excellent chances to live. Hamilton was not attacked severely and he was taken to his home where he died.

YOUTH GOES TO TRIAL FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Manitowoc—(AP)—A jury of 12 men today heard evidence in the case of Marcelus Bieker, 19, Manitowoc, accused of manslaughter and homicide in connection with the death of Laura Pautz, 24, Maribel.

Miss Pautz was fatally shot as she returned from a dance a few weeks ago with her fiancé, William Gordon, Two Rivers, and Bieker.

After opening medical testimony, Gordon testified he believed the shooting was accidental and said he knew of no enmity between the girl and Bieker.

At the coroner's inquest, Bieker said he accidentally shot the girl with a small calibre revolver when he stumbled and the gun fired.

CRIME STUDY BODY ENDS ITS OFFICIAL LIFE

But Commission Members Are Expected to Conclude Their Activities

Washington—(AP)—One of President Hoover's commissions, once the highest focal point of interest in the nation today dissolved quietly into its 11 component parts.

The president's national commission on law observance and enforcement, more often called the Wickersham commission, does not reach the end of its allotted span until midnight tonight when the remainder of its $500,000 appropriation reverts to the government. But the commission's once immaculate offices and equipment today were in the hands of the movers. All its members save two had departed, and prospects were that after tonight Chairman Wickersham alone would remain in the capital.

Commission observers had expected a final meeting and some brief ceremony as the time came for its dissolution. But as each member completed his part in the 25-months long conversation of crime he, she, departed quietly and with none of the excitement that marked their first coming to the capital.

Here is the commission's record: Ten reports have been delivered to the government printer or deposited at the White House; four others one of them the still-controverted study of prohibition, have been made public. Of the half million dollars appropriated for this work approximately $20,000 can be returned to the treasury.

Even with the completion of this work, the stripping of the commission's offices and the departure of the members, however, its task is not yet formally done.

Will Finish Work
At commission headquarters the view was expressed that only when a final history of the commission's activities and expenditures is written and accepted with a "well done" by President Hoover, will the commission actually cease to exist. It was not created by law but by executive command.

In order to attain this end a temporary commission headquarters has been established near the White House, equipped to accommodate only Chairman Wickersham and a small staff. There the fifteenth report will be written.

Both chairman and commission members have remained silent, however, as to how this task is to be financed. It was said authoritatively that funds for its maintenance could not be taken from the expiring appropriation. But whether they will come from the pocket of some member, from outside sources or from the president himself has not been disclosed.

During his final days the commission has enjoyed a quiet that seldom was allowed it during its long prohibition study. Then, with much of the country waiting to obtain the thought of the 11 members about the dry law, rumors surrounded it so thickly that every possibility was envisaged.

In this quiet since mid-winter the commission has completed reports upon the deportation of aliens, "Lawlessness in Law Enforcement," Crime Among the Foreign Born, Juvenile Delinquency, the Work of the Police, Prisons, Probation and Parole, the Costs and Causes of Crime and a "Progress Report" upon the work of the courts, to be carried on by private agencies.

GUARD BEER BARON IN ALLEGED MURDER PLOT

New York—(AP)—A tip that a plan was afoot to assassinate Dutch Schultz beer baron, in open court, brought four score detectives and policemen to the criminal courts building today.

They established a guard about the court where the racketeer was on trial for a slaying. The charge grows out of a pistol fight with detectives in which one of Schultz's men was killed and the racketeer himself captured outside his Fifth-Ave. hideaway.

While the detectives scanned every person in and near the courtroom for signs of weapons, the selection of a jury proceeded.

AMERICA FIRM ON DEBT PLAN OF PRESIDENT

Mellon and Edge Attempting to Find Means of Ironing Out Difficulties

BULLETIN

Brussels—(AP)—The text of the Belgian reply to President Hoover's war debt proposal, made public today, accepts in principle but makes reservations for the application of the plan to Belgium.

Washington—(AP)—The American government stood firmly today upon the debt moratorium plan as originally announced by President Hoover and awaited the next European development.

Conferences between the American envoys and French officials temporarily were in recess in Paris, but there was no apparent diminution in the attention President Hoover was giving the situation.

He conferred for an hour and a half in the forenoon with acting Secretaries Mellon and Edge. The two officials left shortly before the regular cabinet meeting and expected to return later in the day.

The exploration of the fiscal year without completion of agreement to the proposed one-year moratorium was considered of little importance in official circles. It was pointed out that no payments of great importance were due for some time and that any final agreement for a suspension of payments would be made retroactive so as to cover the entire fiscal year of 1932.

CONTINUE DISCUSSIONS

Paris—(AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Ambassador Walter E. Edge conferred at length today in the latter's residence, re-examining every angle of the Franco-American negotiations and groping for new light on how to insure and agreement on the Hoover moratorium plan.

They talked during the night by trans-Atlantic telephone with Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle, Jr., in Washington, on the latest French modifications and President Hoover himself was understood to have listened in the White House. Inasmuch as he is never called direct this device enables him to intervene in the conversations when he wishes.

The Associated Press was informed that not only was the newspaper Excelsior correct in quoting Premier Laval to the effect that France had reached the limit of concessions but that he made the same statement in effect in last night's conference with the American delegates.

He was said to have explained that the cabinet had deliberated over his policies and had formulated what they deemed the limit of compromise. He said that public opinion would not permit France to go any further and that therefore the government was obliged to stand firm, at the same time remaining cordial and convinced that an agreement could be reached.

WRECK OF CIRCUS TRAIN BLAMED FOR TIGERS IN MEXICO

Pachuca, Mexico—(AP)—A circus train wreck 18 years ago is believed to be responsible for the electrical law and protest against the return of the deposed president, Luis M. Sanchez Cerro.

A tiger and two tigresses escaped when the "Maravilla" circus train was wrecked in 1913 near the villa and they are believed to have been the progenitors of the numerous beasts of their kind that now dwell in the mountains. Bengal tigers do not exist anywhere else in America.

OPTIMIST CLUB TO RECEIVE CHARTER

Formal Presentation to Be Made This Evening at Conway Hotel

The charter of the local Optimist club will be formally presented at a meeting of the organization at Conway hotel at 7 o'clock tonight.

Over 100 Optimists from Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa are expected to attend, although the heat may keep many of them from driving to Appleton.

The charter will be presented by the international president, Robert Sutherland, of Madison, and will be accepted by Dr. C. L. Kolb, local president. The district governor, David Onan of Minneapolis, Minn., will give an address, Optimism, and Robert Edison, Milwaukee, head of 27 junior Optimists in that city, will talk on Junior Optimism.

Harvey Schlitz will be toastmaster at the dinner, and Ray Nicholson, president of the Milwaukee Optimist club, will lead the community singing. An orchestra will furnish music for the dinner and the dance which will follow the meeting. The presidents of other local civic clubs have been invited to attend.

PERUVIAN REVOLT IS LIMITED TO 2 AREAS

Lima, Peru—(AP)—The government issued a bulletin today saying the military rebellion, which broke out several days ago, affected only the regions of Cuzco and Puno.

The revolt was understood to be based upon demands for changes in the electrical law and protest against the return of the deposed president, Luis M. Sanchez Cerro.

TIDES HALT TREASURE SALVAGE OPERATIONS

Brest, France—(AP)—After 10 days of successful operations, divers from the salvage ship Artiglio II, who are seeking to recover a shipment of gold from the sunken Oriental liner Egypt, were forced to abandon their work temporarily today by strong tides. They planned to continue their work tomorrow.

By dynamiting the Egypt's superstructure, the divers said, they had reached the upper deck which has been cleared for sixty feet. They hope to reach the treasure in the hold before the end of the year.

Erache's have already been made in the upper deck which it is intended should develop into a well to the treasure room. The Egypt went down off the coast of France in 1922.

GREEN BAY MAN IS DROWNED WHILE HE SWIMS FOX RIVER

Green Bay—(AP)—Henry Zegers, 35, Green Bay garage man, drowned in the Fox river just south of Green Bay city limits last night while swimming with friends to escape the heat. The body was recovered at 11:30 p. m. after three hours of dragging.

Ordinarily a powerful swimmer, Zegers, according to friends, had planned to repeat his feat of Tuesday noon, when he swam across the river and back. When he reached the middle of the stream, however, he sank before assistance could reach him.

Woodcock Says Dry Agents Now Are "On Right Track"

Washington—(AP)—Looking back over his first year as chief enforcing officer of the dry laws in the United States, Amos W. W. Woodcock believes the course of enforcement now is definitely "on the right track."

It was twelve months ago tomorrow that the soft-spoken Marylander part soldier, part lawyer, left his post as United States attorney in Baltimore at President Hoover's request to assume the position of federal dry chief.

Today Woodcock holds that prohibition is being better enforced than at any time in its history—enforced "with less irritation to the innocent."

He contends that "steady pressure" against the higher-ups and big commercial violators of the Volstead law can, in time, largely put out of sight this type of traffic.

He asserts that the "picayunish, non-commercial violator" should not materially concern federal agents, but should be touched by education.

He holds that the agents now in the field are approaching his ideal of becoming the "best trained force of investigators in the world."

He has not altered his view of a year ago that prohibition should be removed from the front pages of the newspapers.

The slim, partly bald man who holds the reins of prohibition enforcement has made law his vocation and soldiering his avocation. His speech today is interlarded with military terms. He has carried over many of the ideas of his army days into his present task.

Woodcock's most recent circular to his 12 administrators spoke of establishing a bureau to "study enemy operations." And not long since he put into effect what he termed an army merit system under which agents are graded for advancement on a percentage basis of knowledge, efficiency, length of service and heroic performance.

DRY OFFICER KILLS BOOTLEGGER SUSPECT

West Palm Beach, Fla.—(AP)—A suspected bootlegger was fatally wounded here last night in a pistol fight with a federal prohibition agent in disguise. The agent ordered two cases of liquor from the man and then tried to arrest him after his delivery.

The agent, Neil Evans of Jacksonville, and another officer, L. J. Jenkins, also of Jacksonville, said they bargained with W. E. Griffin for the liquor and he delivered it in an automobile.

When they disclosed their identity, they said Griffin drew a revolver and started shooting. Evans fired four shots in return. One bullet penetrated Griffin's head. Jenkins did not fire.

Evans was placed under technical arrest and placed in custody of T. M. Enright, chief of the prohibition office here.

HYDE PONDERES DROUGHT RELIEF IN 2 STATES

Washington—(AP)—A decision of extending relief to drought-stricken farmers in Montana and North Dakota probably will be reached in Kansas City tomorrow by Secretary Hyde.

He will receive first hand reports there from the agriculture department's special agent, John G. Brown, who has made a personal survey of the drought area.

Agricultural credit corporation and livestock loan company loans are available to farmers if they can offer adequate security.

LA FOLLETTE SIGNS DEER HUNTING BILL

Season Advanced Nine Days Under Measure Sponsored by Chilton Solon

Madison—(AP)—The deer hunting season in Wisconsin was advanced nine days today when Gov. Philip LaFollette signed a measure originally introduced by Assemblyman Jerome Fox, Chilton.

The 10-day season will open Nov. 21 in even numbered years, and under the one-buck law, proponents of the bill say the opening date was moved from Dec. 1 on grounds that bucks are in the open earlier, while does are in the brush, thus assuring a smaller number of illegally slain animals.

MRS. THOMAS AGAIN HEADS G. O. P. WOMEN

Madison—(AP)—President Hoover's abilities and accomplishments are being realized by the nation. Mrs. Harry Thomas, Sheboygan, told some 30 women who met here today for the annual convention of Wisconsin Republican women.

Mrs. Thomas, national Republican committeewoman from Wisconsin, was reelected president of the state organization, a post she has held since its inception two years ago.

The state president pointed to the critical period through which the nation is going and expressed appreciation for having President Hoover at the head of the nation. Mr. Hoover, she said, "has brought to practical completion the fulfillment of the campaign pledges" has created thousands of jobs, maintained the wage scale and prevented labor disputes.

FRENCH DAREDEVIL FACES COURTMARTIAL

Chateaufort, France—(AP)—The daredevil military aviator, Sergeant Herve Martin, will be courtmartialled on serious charges for his responsibility in the accidental killing of two persons and injuries to two others.

He was flying low above an automobile yesterday when the undercarriage of the plane struck the occupants, decapitating one of them. He was said to have admitted afterwards that he was showing off for the benefit of a student pilot with him.

Evidently the long trek had been without serious incident for the fliers volunteered little information about it, keeping busy at Solomon.

EDMONTON IS NEXT GOAL OF WORLD FLIERS

Two Take Off from Fairbanks, Alaska, on 1,450-Mile Hop to Alberta

AHEAD OF SCHEDULE
Fliers on Last 3,000 Miles of Flight Around Globe

BULLETIN
Fairbanks, Alaska—(AP)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty took off here at 3:24 a. m. (7:24 a. m. Appleton time) today for Edmonton, Alberta, 1,450 miles.

Fairbanks, Alaska—(AP)—Triumph over the wild northern Pacific ocean as well as the Atlantic and still one up on Father Time, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty sailed into Fairbanks last night and got within about 3,000 miles of the end of their 15,000 dash around the world.

Post and Gatty crested their monoplanes Winnie Mae about 2,500 miles across the Pacific from Khabarovsk, Siberia, to Solomon, near Nome, yesterday and then 500 miles more to Fairbanks before calling it a day.

The globe girdlers left Khabarovsk at 4 o'clock a. m. in standard time, Monday, and dashed into Solomon at 2:45 p. m. western Alaska time (7:45 p. m. Appleton time), averaging about 150 miles an hour for the first non-stop eastward crossing of the Pacific in that area.

The landing at Solomon in the place of Suva, as intended destination, indicated they had arrived slightly in reckoning their position, but they missed their mark only 35 miles.

3 Hours at Solomon
Taking less than three hours at Solomon, they hopped for Fairbanks at 8:50 a. m. (10:30 p. m. Appleton time) after surviving two minor accidents, and arrived here at 9:25 p. m. (1:25 a. m. Appleton time, Tuesday).

In the first mishap, Gatty was struck by the propeller. He fell to the ground, safely away from the whirling blades, which had been only bruised and clambered into the plane.

On an attempted takeoff the plane nosed over, due to the rough ground and stopped with its propeller apparently bent. Post seized a hammer and wrench and pounded it into shape and they were off. The flight to Fairbanks was uneventful. The fliers arranged to have their plane serviced while they slept and announced they would leave for Edmonton, Alberta, at dawn today.

Despite two long delays in Siberia, the fliers stay were ahead of their schedule. They had covered 12,000 miles in six days, 22 hours and 29 minutes, and had about three days left in which to cover the approximately 3,000 miles to New York, the starting and stopping point.

Little Southern Cross Hop
With its crossing of the northern Pacific, the Winnie Mae takes a place alongside the famous monoplanes Southern Cross for the distinction of having flown across both oceans in long hops.

The Southern Cross flew from Oakland, Calif., to Australia in three long jumps—Honolulu and Suva, the first intermediate stops—in 1931 and later flew from Ireland to Newfoundland with its same pilot, Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith.

The Winnie Mae made no ocean flight comparable to the memorable dash of the Southern Cross from Hawaii to Suva, 3,133 miles, but it hopped over some 2,000 miles of the north Pacific yesterday. Numerous planes have flown from Alaska to Siberia and back in the vicinity of Bering Straits and the army round the world fliers negotiated the northern ocean in several jumps by way of the Kurile and Aleutian Islands, but the feat of the Winnie Mae was the first of its particular kind.

From Khabarovsk the fliers passed over about 200 miles of the Siberian coast region and then across the Straits of Tartary, Saghalien Island, the Sea of Okhotsk and the Kamchatka peninsula before heading over the wide stretch of the Bering sea to Nome.

Evidently the long trek had been without serious incident for the fliers volunteered little information about it, keeping busy at Solomon.

Claim Only Business Men Can Rid U. S. Business Of Rackets

REPEAL OF DRY LAW NOT CURE, SPEAKER SAYS

Col. Robert I. Randolph Avers "We Get Kind of Enforcement We Demand"

University, Va., (AP)—Riding business of rackets is up to the business man, two men versed in the ways of the racketeer said today at the Institute of Public Affairs.

One of them, a prosecutor for many years, George Z. Medalle, United States attorney for the Southern district of New York (New York City), in addition urged the need of more adequate police protection and asserted the fester would not be cured by the legalizing of intoxicants.

"Without entering into the merits of the prohibition controversy," he said, "it is clear to me that so far as racketeering is concerned, the repeal of prohibition is not the panacea."

The other, Colonel Robert Isham Randolph, leader in the business men's revolt in Chicago against the extortionist and president of the Association of Commerce there, agreed to the need of better law enforcement but remarked "we get just about the kind of enforcement we demand." Racketeering and other forms of crime will cease to be a problem, he said, when business "recaptures its old ethical standards," ceases to play dirty politics and recognizes honest competition and when "the sense of labor purges itself of criminal habits."

Limit Definition Both narrowed the scope of their discussions of "racketeering" to include only conspiracies, as Colonel Randolph put it, "to commit extortion by intimidation, force, violence, blackmail, arson, murder, kidnaping, bombing and various instances." Mr. Medalle traced the crime to its beginning when social clubs corrupted an old practice of selling tickets to benefit performances to small shopkeepers, by threatening the business men who failed to buy them.

Gangs grew up, he said, who insured operations of small businesses not only from violence at their own hands but from the depredations of rival mobs. Certain forms of business, notable building contracting, lent themselves to racketeering because of the necessity for finishing on time and the ease with which the gangster could delay operations.

Another form of racketeering developed, said Medalle, when business men called in gangs to aid in wiping out competition.

With business groups allying themselves with gangs, he said, the influence of the racketeer has developed a nation-wide interest and an earnest effort is being made to meet the evil. Many definite cures have been proposed but "no one remedy will ever be adequate." Laws to deal with the racketeer are inadequate, in his opinion, but he stressed as primary the need for an "awakening of conscience" that would banish the employment of gang methods by trade groups.

The immensity of racketeering was pointed by Colonel Randolph. The cost of this phase of crime to the people of Chicago has been estimated at $145,000,000 annually, he said, which is but $20,000,000 less than the cost of the operating the city government.

Terrorist Not Permanent

The "simon pure" racketeer, or terrorist who attaches himself without aid from politician or business man to business or wage-earner is easy of detection and is of passing nature, Col. Randolph stated, but the "collusive agreement" racket, entered into by associations of business men leaders of organized labor, the criminal world and politician, is deep-rooted and its vices are felt generally.

The business man seeks to shut out competition, he said, the labor leader desires control over workers in a given trade, the gangster is offered lucrative employment to bomb, commit arson, slug, maim and kill and the politician to get votes, contributions and some times profits of the conspiracy paralyzes the law.

Despite its sinister aspect, racketeering is yielding to the war against it, Col. Randolph said. The number once 163, had been reduced to 53 at the end of 1930. He classified the elements of the indifference, which he said has allowed racketeering to exist for so long and still continue to do so, as ignorance, fear and expediency.

He urged a return to the principles of freedom, as enunciated in Magna Charta, the Declaration of Independence and national constitution and imported business leaders to insist upon honesty and competency in public office and to recognize "that only worthwhile and enduring power comes through service rather than arrogant dominance."

44-HOUR WEEK IN EFFECT TOMORROW

Postal Employees to Work Shorter Hours Under New Schedule

The new 44-hour week for employees at the Appleton post office will go into effect tomorrow, according to postal officials. The schedule goes into effect all over the United States at the same time. The principal result of the change here, according to postal officials, will be the curtailment of services on Saturdays. Instead of two deliveries on Saturday's there will be only one. However, usually the last few years during summer there was only a single delivery, so the change will not be noticed here until next fall. Under the new schedule as arranged here the carriers will work only five hours on Saturday and seven hours on Tuesday. Most of the postal clerks will have Saturday afternoons off, the same as the carriers, but this will not be possible in every case. Those who must work on Saturdays will take their spare time off on Tuesdays and Fridays.

REVENUE MEN KNOW HOW TO LAND CROOKS

Perseverance and Diligence
Their Strong Point,
Agent Tells Lions

United States revenue agents are not sleuths or detectives, but they have found an effective method of hitting crooked politicians, bootleggers, gangsters and racketeers. As a result they are accomplishing what the prohibition and the state and city police departments could not do, according to David H. Matteson, internal revenue collector for the federal government, who spoke before the Appleton Lions club at its noon luncheon at Conway hotel yesterday.

Perseverance and diligence are the characteristics of the agents' work and it is these traits which have resulted in the downfall of Al Capone and a hundred other prominent Chicago gangsters, gunmen and bootleggers, he pointed out.

Mr. Matteson explained that the revenue agents and deputy collectors are two entirely different workmen. He said revenue collectors all have passed civil service examinations and work directly under the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington. He said they should never be confused with deputy collectors.

For a young revenue collector, who Mr. Matteson knows personally, worked for more than a year on the financial history of Capone, preparing the government's case, was recounted by the speaker.

Capone Changes Name

In this period Capone changed his name a score of times, he had accounts of bank accounts and the work was hampered everywhere. But diligence and perseverance enabled this worker to trace checks back to their origin and establish who received them. It is this spirit which resulted in Capone's arrest and his immediate plea of guilty when he understood the facts which were held against him.

Mr. Matteson said that government agents working on cases of this nature are not in such great danger because the gangsters are afraid to kill a federal income tax man. He said they have admitted this and told how he went out with a Chicago agent, who was checking Ralph Capone's transactions. He said Capone sent along two gunmen as guards when they visited some of his "business places" to establish just how much Capone had to pay to keep these places operating. The men who accompanied them were well-armed and admitted that they were instructed not to let any harm come to the agents.

Although the federal unit is using its powers as a weapon against gangsters, Mr. Matteson pointed out, the department nevertheless is not discriminatory. He said that evidence of this was given in checkups of incomes of movie stars, wealthy contractors and others all over the United States. Mr. Matteson recounted some of his own experiences in checking up the incomes of Chicago contractors who were alleged to have been connected with the sanitary district frauds. He said he estimated that the public there had been robbed of $30,000,000.

"Surely, if honest people are forced to pay taxes on honest incomes, these crooked politicians and racketeers ought to be forced to pay on their crooked incomes," said Mr. Matteson.

Pay Roll Padding
The agent told of finding evidence of pay-roll padding by the Chicago contractors to escape payment of income taxes. He said he found such men as Andy Gump and Jiggs on the payroll. The evidence was uncovered by the tedious process of tracing checks back to their origin. He told of the difficulty he encountered at many points along the line, but said that finally this work resulted in uncovering evidence which led to payment of $800,000 additional taxes in one case and $1,250,000 in another case.

The reason for the deplorable condition in Chicago, Mr. Matteson said, is because of the criminal laws and their method of enforcement. He said that when a gangster is arrested in Wisconsin he is arraigned immediately and a high bond is set. If furnished, the property for the bond must be of proven value. Then the judge sets the date for trial and if found guilty the criminal is sentenced immediately and taken to jail.

In Illinois, however, it is different. He said that when a gangster is arrested it is first necessary for an indictment to be voted by a grand jury of 40.

If indicted the judge sets bond, but in Chicago $10,000 is considered a big bond and almost any type of bond is accepted. This results in many forfeitures with the state on the losing end. Then it is up to the prosecutor to set the date for trial, instead of the judge. This often results in the prosecutor having a convenient memory and the gangster a never-tried.

Another thing that complicates the situation is the method of appointments of police chiefs and captains. These men all receive their appointments through politicians and it is as much as their jobs are worth to order the arrest of a gangster who happens to be a friend of the political boss of the district.

HOT WEATHER TIPS OFFERED BY STATE HEALTH OFFICIAL

Madison—(P)—Here are hot weather tips offered to Wisconsin's citizens by Dr. C. A. Harper, state health officer.

No industrial enterprise is so important that the limit of human endurance can be made a secondary consideration.

Don't submit to the lure of violent games or recreations that keep you in the sun during the heat of the day.

If you are subject to heart irregularity of any type, take additional precautions against heat effects.

Eat lightly during heat waves and confine your diet to light, easily digested foods.

Drink cool tap water or well water in preference to iced drinks.

Slow down the tempo in general when the mercury is high in the 90's.

PIONEER RESIDENT DIES

Chicago—(P)—Mrs. Ella Biggs Finnegan, a pioneer Chicago resident, and mother of Richard J. Finnegan, editor of the Daily Times, died at her home last night.

Botanists have discovered on the Hawaiian Islands nearly 700 varieties of plants that are found nowhere else.

C. C. WARNS AGAINST ADVERTISING SCHEMES

Two new advertising schemes which have been worked in Appleton during the last few days do not have the sanction of the chamber of commerce, according to Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary.

One of the plans was tried at a hotel here where a clock with advertising panels was to be sold to the hotel proprietor. The agent asked names of the business houses with which the hotel did business and suggested getting advertisements at a comparatively high fee.

Another scheme was tried in connection with a local amusement company, but the salesman was not able to put over his proposal.

"Specialty advertising stunts and salesmen are thick this time of the year," Mr. Corbett said, "and persons approached should ask the chamber of commerce to investigate."

PLAN GRADING OF AMERICAN CHEESE

Committee Also Plans to Regulate Disputes on Quality

Madison—Wisconsin's American cheese will be graded, standards for grades will be controlled, and disputes regarding quality will be settled by a new system of arbitration committees, it is announced by J. W. Moore, marketing specialist of the department of agriculture and markets. The new arrangement is the result of the Fond du Lac meeting held last February, and committee meetings and hearings held since throughout the state.

State grading of cheese has been discontinued since January 1930 and the new system has been adopted at the request of all branches of the cheese industry. The department of agriculture will again supervise the grading of cheese according to Mr. Moore, but all men qualified to grade cheese in any community will be registered and in case an inspector finds a mis-branding of cheese, a local committee may be called upon to render a decision.

Grade will be stamped on each cheese by a set of rubber stamps which will be issued by the department to warehouse and cheese factory units.

The penalty to be imposed upon a violator, according to Mr. Moore, will be to have the state inspector hold all cheese that he finds misgraded. When the arbitration committee finds that the cheese is misgraded, the state inspector will see that proper grade marks are applied and the final penalty will be to take the grade stamps for a period of time. During this period the violator can not market his cheese as of a grade, but he may call upon a licensed grader to grade the product for him. Costs of the licensed grader will be borne by the violator.

Cambridge, Md.—In 56 years there have been no deaths in the family of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Matthews. Seven sons are Knights of Templar and three daughters are teachers. Four generations were represented at a recent family reunion.

GENERAL ELECTRIC designers thought of the housewife when they added many new refinements to the latest General Electric Refrigerator. They thought of her opening and closing the refrigerator door many times each day. So they created "finger-tip" latches that open at a touch. They realized her troubles with fruit acids—so they produced a new vitreous enamel that won't corrode or discolor. Lastly, they invented new sliding shelves—that bring foods within easy reach.

Extra features—extra value—these are offered you today at the lowest prices in General Electric history. And with them the positive protection of a 3-Year Guarantee against any service expense.

New Postmaster Will Take Over His Duties Here Tomorrow

E. A. GREUNKE WILL SUCCEED WM. ZUEHLKE

Present Officer Makes Last Official Request for Service Improvement

Appleton's new postmaster, Emery A. Greunke of the Greunke Grading company, who was appointed to office about six weeks ago, will assume his new duties tomorrow, July 1. He will succeed W. H. Zuehlke, who has been acting postmaster since April 1, 1929, when he was appointed after the resignation of B. F. Wetzel.

Mr. Zuehlke's last official act today for the improvement of the department was to recommend to the federal postal department the extension of more service to residents living in Bell Heights addition. This section abuts the northwest part of the city. At the present time the residents of this section must erect mail boxes on either Wisconsin-ave or Richmond-st, and some residents are forced to walk from three to five blocks to get their mail. Mr. Zuehlke's recommendation provides for the carrier on route 2 to go north five blocks on Richmond-st, then west on Barnes-st two blocks to Barnes-st, then south on Barnes-st five blocks back to Richmond-st. This will provide service for the entire district.

This carrier now leaves the city, going west on Wisconsin-ave. The proposed change would give him 12 more blocks to cover and would serve 54 families and two business places.

In June, 1930, C. D. Thompson, A. C. Rule and Mr. Greunke were placed on the eligible list, following a federal investigation of applications for the postmastership. Mr. Greunke's appointment was made about six weeks ago.

Since 1921 Mr. Greunke has been co-partner in the Greunke Grading Co. Since 1929 he also has been connected with Greunke Bros. Construction company. He joined this firm on his discharge from the army in 1919. He is a member of the Oney Johnson post, American legion and the brick layers' union.

Pitt was taken to a physician for treatment and then to his home by Officer Lester Van Roy.

While reaching the scene of the accident an ambulance driven by Kuntz Taxi company and driven by Gus Klinkstein, and a Wisconsin Michigan Power company truck collided at the intersection of College-ave and State-st. The ambulance was damaged so that it couldn't operate. The truck was slightly damaged. No one was hurt.

THREE OFFICERS RESIGN; DISCOVER FALSE PROMOTION

Heads of National Auto Haven Co. Claim They Were Misled

According to information received by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, three officers have resigned from the National Auto Haven Co., claiming they were victims of a promotion. Samuel F. Wheeler, alias Adrian J. Williams, Chicago. This corporation announced about a month ago plans to build a tourist hotel and several garages in Appleton, Neenah and other Fox river valley cities.

E. J. Gossett, president of the Bell and Gossett Co., boiler manufacturers, stated that Wheeler had no authority to designate him as president of the National Auto Haven Co. Harley V. Pettit, formerly connected with the United Hotels Co., claiming that he severed. His connections with the Auto Haven Co. about May 15 after having advanced Wheeler about $1,500, which he said was never returned. Lee H. Blere, former secretary of the Grand Rapids Chamber of Commerce, was also a member of the firm.

Wheeler has consistently refused information about his identity and past business connections, but he recently admitted who he was when confronted with evidence by the state attorney, the chamber was told.

For several months, under the name of Adrian J. Williams, he has been collecting money for this corporation with the supposed plan to erect a group of combination hotels, filling stations, restaurants throughout Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan. Favorable publicity was obtained from newspapers in the middle west which was followed by offers to take bids from contractors. However, the contractors were advised to pay $25 in advance for a certain set of plans. The checks were made payable to A. J. Williams and they were deposited by Wheeler in his personal account in a Chicago bank.

Wheeler solicited owners of real estate to sell their property to the National Auto Haven Co. under an agreement which involved the payment of no money on the part of the corporation. The deal provided for the company taking no risks in that the owner conveyed the title to the corporation whereby the corporation took out the first mortgage on the property for the cost of erecting the proposed Auto Haven. The seller of the property then took a second mortgage on the land and building. This company established an office in Chicago which was furnished elaborately on a chattel mortgage. The racket bureau of Chicago of the State Attorney's office has raised the company office to seize certain records.

7 Deaths Are Blamed To Weather

he is being treated. Last Saturday afternoon Walter Lemke, Appleton, 22, Milwaukee, who with his two brothers, Edward, 33, Appleton, and R. J., 21, Milwaukee, were arrested early Sunday morning after a fight at the Blue Goose Inn on the Apple Creek-rd, just north of Appleton. The three brothers were arraigned yesterday on charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, resisting an officer, and drunkenness and disorderly conduct. In addition a charge of assault without regard for life has been filed against Leo, who is charged with wielding the knife with which Frank Frenz, a dance hall inspector, was stabbed during the fracas.

It is charged the three men set out on the officer after he ordered them to leave the Inn so it could be closed at 1 o'clock, in accordance with the law. After the stabbing the trio attempted to flee, but they stopped when Officer Frenz shot at them and the bullet punctured the radiator of their car.

The three pleaded not guilty when arraigned yesterday and Leo entered the same plea to the fourth count against him, when he was arraigned a second time later. Bonds on the first three counts were set at $300 for each and an additional bond of $1,000 was required for Leo. All the bonds were furnished. Hearings are set for July 13.

Heat Waves
An Appleton woman called the Post-Crescent Tuesday morning to protest that there are no bird baths in the city parks or on the Lawrence college grounds. She said the birds were walking around the parks and college campus with mouths wide open, apparently in need of water. Naturalists, however point out the birds walk with mouths wide open to get air.

The heat wave is no help to stocking manufacturers. Girls go without stockings, as do the youngsters and perhaps a few men. And many of the men who are wearing socks are wearing sports socks — just enough to cover their feet.

Members of Co. D, 12th Infantry Wisconsin National guard, last night deserted the army and went up near the college campus to spend the evening in close order drill.

Employees on the Post-Crescent were affected by the heat. One member of the editorial staff preparing to write the weather story Monday, was overcome just before getting started on the yarn. A girl linotype operator was overcome at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning.

One Appleton soda fountain reported it had served cooling drinks and lunches to 600 persons yesterday. The store is one of the coolest in Appleton and persons went there all day.

Appleton job printing shops closed up Monday and will remain closed until it gets cool. The owners found the heat making molasses out of the press rollers and decided there was no use continuing. The Post-Crescent presses managed to get by Monday evening with only a minimum of damage to rollers.

The north side of College-ave may be the busiest side of the street on ordinary days but not during the heat. The Post-Crescent north side was almost deserted and the shade south side was crowded with those who had to pass up and down the street.

The Wisconsin Telephone company has been experiencing trouble because of the heat. "Sweating" baseboards are affecting basement wires and the heat is affecting the wires and cables strung out of doors.

County and state crews will have more than a little trouble after the sun stops shining, bringing some of the concrete highways back to earth. The heat has expanded the concrete and the expansions have resulted in bad upheavals on the pavements.

Appleton pressers are reaping a harvest from the heat, but at the same time expressing their opinions in no uncertain terms. The heat and perspiration are taking the press out of a lot of clothes but the pressers have no more desire to work than anyone else.

FILE 4TH CHARGE AGAINST MAN FOR ALLEGED STABBING

"Slow" Pupils Constitute Special Problem And They Need Special Treatment

That the "slow-moving" or retarded student is not mentally deficient was expressed by every principal in Appleton public schools in individual discussions about what the schools are doing for the retarded child. The slow student differs from the average and above average one in his ability to assimilate facts and thoughts. Organized remedial work, vocational studies and homogenous classes resented in the school system today were unheard of in the old school days when everyone attended the same classes to become and remain a bright student, a dullard or a lazy scholar. With modern educational methods each school child is considered in the light of his ability.

The problem of varying abilities is worked out in the elementary schools through a diagnosis of every elementary grade and pupil. Frank E. Younger, supervisor of the elementary schools, has given reading tests to every child in school throughout the year to determine the remedial instruction necessary for the individual pupil as well as the group as a whole. Reading to Mr. Younger is not a single ability but a number of abilities more or less specific.

Reading Types Differ

"We have children who are rapid, fluent oral readers who have little comprehension," he said. "They might be called a photograph type of reader since there is little more thought given by the pupil reading than the machine that reproduces the record. On the other hand we have children who read slowly but understand what they read, and children for whom reading is so cumbersome and laborious a task that all their attention is given to the mechanics of reading and consequently little thinking results from it."

Mr. Younger indicated that types of reading ability depend on certain specific skills or technique. One kind is merely to grasp an accurate general impression, another requires an analysis of facts as well as general understanding. Still another technique is that which requires careful, precise attention to details. The fourth type of reading which he presented is that which enables a student to recognize and analyze many details at the same time. He explained that with the varying needs of our children in the average classroom, it is necessary to ascertain which reading skills need developing.

"Training in general reading is inadequate," he said, "and training in one kind of reading skill will not surely develop types. In order to determine what remedial instruction to give or what techniques need development, the children in our elementary schools are given diagnostic tests in reading."

Three Tests Offered

In the first and second grades a team of three tests is given in reading. These tests are designed to make possible a comprehensive measurement of achievement in reading in such a way as to reveal special strengths and weaknesses and thereby to indicate the type of training most needed by the pupil. The tests measure achievement in word recognition, word phrase and sentence reading and the reading of paragraphs of directions.

After the tests are given and carefully graded the class is usually divided into groups, each group composed of pupils having similar difficulties. The common reading deficiencies are usually one of four types according to Mr. Younger. A child may be low in reading of directions but average or above average in his recognition of words and phrase and sentence reading; he may be low in all three tests; he may be low in phrase and sentence reading and reading of directions while keeping average or higher in word recognition; or he may be slow at grasping word meanings. If a diagnosis of definite remedial work is undertaken to develop these deficiencies. The children are tested by the teacher during the year to note their progress. At the end of the year a standard check test is given.

Much the same procedure is followed in the other grades with more advanced work. The third grade, this year four tests which deal with the general significance of paragraphs, reading to predict the outcome of given events, reading to understand precise directions and that which notes details. In the fourth, fifth and sixth grades the tests are for word meaning, rate of reading, assimilation of fact material, total meaning, central thought, organization and direction, writing.

Make Tests

"Thus the slow child the average child, and the above average child is tested," Mr. Younger explained. "The results are studied and the individual cases diagnosed. Groups are then made up of children having similar difficulties. They are given special definite instruction for the development of specific techniques. This work continues throughout the year and finally parallel check tests are given near the close of the year to determine what has been accomplished."

"The varying needs in certain other studies such as arithmetic are met in much the same way. An effort is made to find out what the child does not know or wherein he is experiencing difficulty."

In the seventh and eighth grades at Roosevelt Junior high school the students are grouped as homogeneously as possible according to abilities. The ninth grade is similarly sectioned as far as choice of subjects will permit. The plan in general, is to give the slower moving groups the bare core essentials of learning together with as much additional material that they can assimilate.

"In contrast to this," A. G. Oosterhouse, principal, explained, "our more rapid groups are not only given the core essentials but leave the main highway of the slower moving pupils and are taken on side excursions for further knowledge. When the slower moving pupils are by themselves we find that it works for economy of time for both pupils and teachers. The teacher expects to give more drill and explanation to these students."

Put In Home Rooms

Junior high school students are placed in home rooms for study periods where they may be under the personal supervision of a home room teacher. At Roosevelt an administrative grade check-up keeps the home room teachers advised on the scholastic progress of their individual pupils. This is used most effectively for the slower pupils who are lax or careless about their work. Mr. Oosterhouse said. In this check-up the progress or lack of it is reported for each student at the end of every three weeks. Students who have slumped in their work are listed with proper comments upon an advisor's blank and sent to the office and then given to the home room advisor for personal conference work.

Mr. Oosterhouse explained the value of this system in that the students are reached before they have become failures. Very often these conferences are supplemented with parental assistance to avert the lowering of grades. Then after the report cards are issued at the end of the six weeks period a quick check-up is made of the success of the teacher-pupil conferences.

"These usually indicate very gratifying results," Mr. Oosterhouse said. For the final six weeks period of school the results of the home room work ranged from 53-13 to 100 per cent salvage."

Another device used for the very slowest students is to require the individual student to have a weekly report form filled out every Friday. Each teacher gives a weekly estimate of the subject grade and the attitude of the student presenting the blank. This is signed by the principal and then sent to the parent for signature. Although this requires extra time on the part of the teacher, it also has a tendency to keep the slower pupils working more than they would otherwise. Mr. Oosterhouse pointed out.

15 In School

Fifteen students are now attending school seven hours every day at Wilson Junior high school in order to make up their work either because of low grades or illness. Each student spends his time in a room by himself and has the privilege of asking advice of Dr. M. H. Small, principal, when assistance is needed. The work of these students centers itself around a detailed outline of the course of study and several pages of questions which must be written out in neat form. When they have completed their work there will be no failures at the junior high school. Dr. Small indicated that this makeshift class is the smallest the school has ever known.

"We insist that these children have a contract to keep with their home and school," Dr. Small explained, "and it is too expensive to the school system to have many failures." Dr. Small finds most of his low students to be those who desire to "get by short" in their school work.

During the year the teachers work with their students through a method of supervised study in the home rooms, remedial classes are held during the day at which certain students are required to attend and students desiring assistance may attend. Classes are also held after school for special assistance for failing students. At the end of the year, students with a high study record are exempt from school.

Dr. Small reported that 112 school letters were given to students who have maintained an A record in citizenship, a B average in studies, who had a perfect attendance and creditable punctuality record. He stressed the value of attendance in school work and its necessity for successful grades on the part of the student.

Keeps Abreast

Promotion by subject, rather than by grade, is the procedure used in senior high school. If a student in high school fails a subject or two, it does not necessarily mean a retardation in grade. He can still make up such failure and keep abreast of his classmates.

"Failure," said Herbert H. Helble, principal at Appleton high school, "is an ever-present problem in school as in life. The statement has been made that failure is abnormal. If that were true, progress would cease. Through failure the individual frequently learns how to live, and how to perform school living satisfactorily."

"Failure tries our souls severely, but need not necessarily be fatal. We have numerous examples in school where early failure proved the stimulus necessary for successful endeavor, we also have cases where school failure, repeated, has meant continued failure of the person concerned. It all depends on the individual."

When a student fails in senior high school, several procedures are open. If the failure occurs at the end of a given six-weeks period there is still time to make up the work in the succeeding weeks. If the failure occurs at the end of the eighteen weeks or the semester period, the student may carry an extra subject if his general scholastic average is B. If his grade standard is not that of high summer school work, or work with a teacher tutor, or correspondence work with the extension division of the University of Wisconsin will enable the failing student to earn necessary credits.

Makes Trial

When a student is granted the privilege of carrying an extra subject for the purpose of making up a failure, he does so on trial for six weeks. If he has then demonstrated a failure, he does to carry the extra load, he is permitted to continue. Additional work by tutor or correspondence is only allowed during the summer.

In answering the question of what happens to the students in high school who fail repeatedly, Mr. Helble stated this as one of the most difficult problems facing high schools today.

"Enrollments have more than doubled in a decade," he pointed out. "This means entrance into high school of types of students who never entered at all in the past. How to meet the differing intellectual and environmental needs of this group is the problem."

"The traditional high school of the past does not meet this newer situation. Such subjects as latin, mathematics, technical science, and possibly, conventional history do not at all offer what this type of student needs. To attempt to feed this student on the usual high school diet is like feeding roast pork to babies. A few tough ones will survive the treatment; the great majority, however, pass out of the picture."

"How to keep them in the picture is the problem," he said. "To meet their varying needs it has been necessary for the progressive high school to add many varying courses. Thus it is we see in our high school curriculum such courses as general social science, shop mechanics, wood working, home management, sewing, art, art appreciation, music, shop mathematics, household chemistry, home nursing and junior business. There is content and culture in all of these. They also contain much vocational direction for boys and girls."

Consider your Adam's Apple!!* Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Consider the Garden of Eden. When that old serpent put Eve up to the idea of handing Adam an apple, he may have been doing them both a good turn—for where would we be today, ladies and gentlemen, without our Adam's Apple. If we didn't have our Adam's Apple, we couldn't sing, we couldn't even speak. For your Adam's Apple is your Larynx—your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. So—Consider your Adam's Apple. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes. Remember—the serpent in the smokers' Garden of Eden—harsh irritants are present in all raw tobaccos. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Reach for a LUCKY instead. Remember, LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette in America that through its exclusive "TOASTING" Process expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. And so we say, "Consider your Adam's Apple."

EUROPEAN CONVERSATIONS

Secretary Mellon went to England, as he says, "to visit his son," who received his degree from Cambridge University. Not to be outdone by the mass production of college degrees in the United States, Cambridge also tacked a few more letters to the already extensive alphabet trailing the secretary's name, and made him another doctor of something or other.

Admitting his visit to be "unofficial" it is noted, however, that Mr. Mellon is indulging in many "conversations." He lunches with Phillip Snowden and Ramsay MacDonald, and Montague Norman of the Bank of England casually drops in to make it a foursome.

The subjects of these "conversations" may have been Mary Pickford's decision to scrap all her old pictures, or the price of aluminum, but probably were not.

Premier MacDonald announces a forthcoming visit to Germany next month, returning the call of Chancellor Brüning. Mr. Mellon may go along to keep him company, perhaps adding a German degree to his collection.

M. Lacour-Gayet, assistant manager of the Bank of France, also called on the American secretary of the treasury. "Just a social call on an old friend," but Secretary Mellon announces he will spend a week in France "to visit his daughter." Running out of sons and daughters may make it necessary to scatter a few nephews and nieces in other European capitals, should he desire to extend his travels.

"Conversations" are tricky things. One might easily lose his shirt without knowing it. A good salesman, though, could take care of himself. Mr. Mellon has had plenty of experience in selling gold dollars in the shape of United States government bonds, but in the conversational gentlemen of England and continental Europe he is meeting master craftsmen in the selling line. He might be the poor fox on a course alive with baying hounds and the thundering hoofs of the hunt.

American isolationists are fearful for Mr. Mellon's shirt. They have visions of it tattered and torn on the wires of "foreign entanglements." They may hope that Secretary Stimson will salvage the remnants on his forthcoming follow-up trip, but the chances are that Senators Will Borah and Smith Brookhart may deem it necessary to constitute themselves a rescue party of two to pull Uncle Andy and Mr. Stimson out of the shell holes and barbed wire. Though being solicitous for the interests of the isolationists on the Western Front, there is no assurance that these gentlemen might not persuade the gang to continue on to Leningrad for a "conversation" and a game of pinocle with Joe Stalin and his crowd, with shirts the stakes. A bad place for shirts in a shirtless proletariat.

FARMERS TO RAISE FLIVVERS

Those who love the golden sunshine stored within the shell of a luscious ripe cantaloup will be disheartened at the news that Henry Ford and his band of bespectacled scientists expect to convert these fruits into flivvers.

Seeking to ally farming with industry, Mr. Ford believes the muskmelon has the ingredients which will make possible the manufacture of certain synthetic materials to replace others now used in his manufactured processes.

Just why cantaloups were selected for this service is not divulged. There are many other farm products, some not even requiring cultivation. The Canada thistle for instance, or burdock, or quack grass or possibly onions. Why not try onions?

Growing melons for automobiles certainly has its advantages. The old picturesque and rapidly disappearing gristmill days will be revived. Instead of converting the harvested grain into flour for biscuits and doughnuts, Mr. Farmer will cart in a few loads of melons and drive home in a brand new Tudge.

NEWSPAPERS AND GAMBLING

The statement from the post office department that the federal government will do everything in its power to stamp out illegal practices now prevailing in reference to the use of the American mails and newspapers to forward the welfare of foreign lotteries, some so-called sweepstakes, is timely. The federal law is drastic.

It forbids the use of the mails to newspapers that contain any advertisement of any lottery or similar enterprise as well as newspapers that by publication of prizes, awards or the details of gambling schemes, are in effect advancing the gambler's designs. This attack is timely because with the publication of the names of a few alleged winners, and the concealment, of course, of the tens of thousands of losers, a fair road is made for the success of these evil enterprises.

The federal attitude is not a narrow one, it is not pitiful, rather is it fair and virtuous.

Gambling has always existed to some extent among all peoples, civilized as well as barbarous. It is incapable of complete smothering.

But where it is not organized or commercialized it loses its sinister aspects and becomes a mere amusement. When people are left to themselves and their own methods no odium attaches to their games of chance because they are innocent in purpose and do not extend themselves into a mere feverish desire for gain.

There are governments which, tempted by the chance of sharing in the dishonest profits wrung from their own people, openly and shamelessly protect and encourage gambling practices. Generally these governments are without the backbone to raise taxes in an honest, straightforward manner and resort to this practice for income with eyes shut tight to the moral weakening of their own people and the beggared conditions resulting. Thus easy funds are supplied but a most mischievous influence is created. The harm is almost invariably done to those who can least afford it, for the wealthier, if they participate at all, risk but a small amount in proportion to their means.

In Colonial days lotteries were common in this country and used for almost every conceivable purpose from selling rag carpets to building a church. But public sentiment in 1833 became so aroused at the harmful extent of this form of gambling that an organization was formed to expose the wastage and wrongs inherent in the system. At present all lotteries are forbidden in the United States.

The Louisiana lottery lasted the longest and was itself the direct cause of congressional action in 1890 which gave life to the present law upon the subject. Then the Louisiana lottery moved to Honduras where it gradually pined away because of the difficulties this government had set in its pathway.

Every form of professional gambling is a curse, heartless and malignant. It is invariably dishonest, either by crooked manipulation of the game or in the odds set against a participant's chances. The lottery system is perhaps the worst of all and that is the system in vogue in the alleged Sweepstakes, quite properly named as the management sweeps up the stakes.

The owners of the idea keep what they want of the receipts, dribbling out in prizes just enough to sharpen the appetite of the gullible and unwary for another venture. One must be very gullible and quite unwary to participate.

WHEN GEORGE III "MISTOOK" THE GANGES

L. B. Namler, a British author, recently made available to industrious readers a volume monumental in its detail called "England in the Age of the American Revolution." More intimations than an average reader welcomes are presented on the names, lineage, bias and divisions among 800 members of an early Georgian Parliament. Nevertheless a vivid light is thrown upon the ignorance of America among the rulers of England 170 years ago.

For illustration, the Duke of Newcastle, who stood next to Pitt as the most powerful member of the British Cabinet, sounded King George III up 1761 upon the King's wishes in connection with the then advanced negotiations for peace after the years of war which cost France the possession of Canada. The King insisted that the they should demolish all the forts, etc., which they had upon the Mississippi, up to the Ganges. "I apprehend," the Duke solemnly entered in a memorandum, "the King mistook the Ganges for some other river. But as I am far from knowing exactly the state and limits of those countries I said nothing further on that head."

It is going a long way back and deep into tedious reading, in order to point an editorial? Possibly; but it is a choice nugget of history and serves excellently to say that King and Ministers and many others, in that day and in this, often need, when talking or writing about things, within their responsibilities, to know more of what they are talking or writing about.—Detroit News.

Rudy Vallee Plays One, Too

Jonah: Was playing a dinner concert for 150 insurance men last week. One of the guests stood up, addressed the toastmaster, and in a very serious tone of voice said something to this effect:

"My friends, in our midst we have a musician of great ability. For years he has studied, he has performed with some of the finest orchestras in the country; at your request, we may be able to get him to play for us. He plays the saxophone. Shall we have him give us a solo?"

Instantaneously, all 150 voices howled "NO." A dead silence followed and the matter was dropped.

And, having become quite prolific, the Musician has this one to add about the nearby radio station, broadcasting a program on Father's Day, when the first number was announced in this way:

"We open our Father's Day Program with the MERRY WIDOW WALTZ in two parts."

Which is darned hard on Father.

We note that the thermometer got up to 108 in our old home town and at the very moment, Mr. and Mrs. Ice and Mr. and Mrs. Winters were registering at one of the hotels.

He built his pride on money
But one day the market fell;
Now skies above are sunny,
And he has no joy to tell.

I do not write to mock it,
For money all men need,
But time has picked his pocket
And he is poor indeed.

About and ever near him
Are pleasures good to know,
But still they fail to cheer him
Because his purse is low.

Who gives to gold tyrannic
The keeping of his joy

SOME BABIES CRY TO BEAT THE BAND

A baby's tummy is built to stand some hard knocks. It is capable of keeping nice and warm against heavy odds. Don't coddle it. Give it a fair show.

The belly muscles are the first the baby learns to use with any great degree of co-ordination. Most of the newborn infant's other muscles are comically ataxic or uncertain in movement. But when the little rascal settles down for a good howl, then you see what perfect co-ordination can do. First the wonderful little beggar draws up his legs, then he inflates his bellows, and wow-wow. He makes such a big noise that he blushes about it himself or maybe it is just a flush of satisfaction. Anyway, it is unlucky for the baby if grandma or one of the neighbors happens to be standing by when he winds up for a good cry. In that case he is pretty sure to be accused of having colic, and the penalty for that is a dose of something pretty terrible.

Really, it is too darn bad a baby can't have an occasional lusty crying spell for exercise, without somebody perpetrating a dose of alleged colic cure or some dose to "help" his digestion or to move his bowels. If we were not already cursed with a plague of laws I'd say there ought to be one to prohibit this nefarious pastime of plying the young infant with such dope on such a pretext.

Amateur parents ought to try to get through their thick heads the fact that a regular infant must do a fair share of hard crying, say an average of one lusty crying spell a day, for the development of his breathing, digesting and circulating functions or organs. Of course if you are ignorant and vicious you can feed your baby some ever ready dope and keep him as quiet as you think a baby should be. If you wish you can quiet the baby forever this way, and probably nobody will chide you for it. Thousands of babies have been done away with in this manner by people who thought they were doing the right thing for their babies.

A good deal of unnecessary and unjustifiable discomfort is given young babies, particularly in the summer time, by the belly band, which among ignorant people, is kept on the unhappy infant weeks and months after its purpose has been fulfilled. They keep the band on the baby because they have a little superstition that the baby may take "cold" if they remove it too soon. Of course this is but an old tribal superstition, but it is hard to tell ignorant people anything and it is hard to tell doctors not even try. The doctors are not seeking to make babies for themselves; they simply know from experience that ignorance folk cannot and will not learn the truth when the truth does not coincide with their old superstitions or tribal practices.

As soon as the navel is healed and requires no further dressing, by all means remove the baby's belly band and let the baby coast along the rest of the way on his own belly. You'll find this policy will keep the bambino smiling in the dogdays.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Syncope, Swooning or Fainting
A doctor told me that syncope, swooning or fainting is not heart disease any more than it is lung or brain disease. Would you please give your view of this. (W. F.)

Answer—My view is the same. One with impaired heart may faint more readily than a normal individual, but fainting does not signify any particular disease.

Feeble-mindedness Not Mental Disease

Is there any difference between a moron and an insane person? (S. D. E.)

Answer—Insanity is mental disease. Feeble-mindedness is merely arrested intellectual growth. A moron is a person whose mental capacity does not exceed that of a normal child aged 12. A moron is not insane and neither is a moron necessarily vicious or dangerous in any way. He is just an overgrown child. You must free your mind from the misuse of the term "moron" to signify insanity or criminality.

Thousands of our most valuable citizens are morons. An ordinary person can scarcely recognize the majority of feeble-minded persons as such.

Futile Ambition

My son aged 19 has great ambition to become a champion athlete. He spends much time every day doing exercises, most of which I believe he got from you. He has much faith in your teachings and advice, but he will not listen to me. He smokes many cigarettes. (G. W.)

Answer—Well, there is little chance for him to get anywhere in athletics if he smokes. Let him give you a solemn pledge that he will not use tobacco or alcohol before he is 25 years old, and he may succeed in his athletic ambition.

The Mountains

Would it be advisable for us to take our 6 year old daughter to the Adirondacks this summer? She has recently recovered from pneumonia and mastoiditis. Is the elevation a factor to be considered? (S. F.)

Answer—By all means take her to the mountains. The elevation is of little importance, but she can do with more sunshine on naked skin. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

The Tynymites

By Hal Cochran

THE toy shop man just bowed his head, smiled at the Tynymites and said, "I love to have the little folks drop in and see my toys. I'm usually busy as can be. I make these things myself, you see. I guess I have most everything to please wee girls and boys."

Said Clowry, "I'm not fooled at all. I know what's hanging on the wall. Big stockings, made for Santa Claus to carry once a year. I've had one every Christmas morning since the day that I was born. Yours look the same as Santa's. Say, what are they doing here?"

"Oh, I made those for Santa Claus to use next Christmas eve because he is afraid that he'll run short. I'm glad to help him out. Right in my shop they're going to stay till he next starts out in his sleigh. If you're real good you will get one at Christmas time, no doubt."

And then they spied fine dolls galore and bigger toys upon the floor. The Tynymites spent an hour just looking round the place. The Travel Man then said, "I think I'd like some lunch and a cool drink." "Gee, so would I," snapped Clowry, with a smile upon his face.

Right after lunch the Travel Man said, "Well, boys, we'd best leave Japan. I've hired a monstrous scaplane. To the Philippines we'll hit. Today's the best time for our start. With short bodys we will depart. I'm sure you all will get a thrill from sailing through the sky."

So, in about an hour or so the Tynymites all shouted, "Oh! That plane is sure a beauty. How are we to get aboard?" The Travel Man replied, "By boat. There's one now waiting, you will note." They rowed out to the plane and then its trusty engine roared.

(The Tynymites arrive in Manila in the next story.)

A Bystander In Washington

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—into the political spotlight again comes "the little gray man from Texas"—Col. Edward M. House—that quiet, self-effacing individual who won fame in the Wilson administration.

Admiration for an old associate and belief in a democratic victory in 1932 have brought him from retirement to take part in the first national campaign since 1916.

Col. House has said that he is working for the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt. And his tactics closely resemble those which he used to aid the late Woodrow Wilson when the war time president was governor of New Jersey.

Wilson, unlike Roosevelt, did not know House until the beginning of the canvass for his presidential nomination. But then House at that time was no national figure. He was a power in Texas state politics and known only to the national leaders of the democratic party.

How Wilson Met House
The story is told that House had been working for Wilson some time before the governor of New Jersey had heard of his silent ally.

One Sunday, in the summer of 1911, Walter Hines Page, later ambassador to Great Britain, and an associate motored to Princeton to discuss the political situation with Wilson.

During the conversation, Page remarked: "By the way, governor, a man named House is working for you down in Texas. You ought to meet him. He has ideas."

Wilson wrote House, expressed his appreciation and suggested a meeting. Later they met for the first time in House's hotel room in New York.

"We talked and talked," House said afterward. "We knew each other for congenial souls at the very beginning."

How intimate their relations were after that meeting and to what extent Wilson relied on his judgment and foresight now is history.

Roosevelt Esteems Him
Roosevelt, who was secretary of the navy in the Wilson administration, is represented as having always valued very highly House's political acumen and advice.

Wilson once said of him: "He is a man of remarkable ability. He can hold things off at arm's length and consider them and discuss them without being miked up."

House applied for the first nomination and election of Wilson he is employing in behalf of Roosevelt.

For the former he assisted in the conduct of an efficient campaign by unobtrusive suggestions to the political managers.

For Roosevelt he is writing his friends in Texas and other western and southern states urging them to support the New York governor for the nomination next year.

Today's Anniversary
REPORT ON U. S. TROOPS
On June 30, 1917, General Pershing, on returning to his headquarters in Paris, issued a statement lauding the success of the transportation of the first contingent of American troops to France. The statement read:

"The landing of the first American troops has been a complete success. In this remarkable transfer of a large force across the ocean not a man or an animal was lost or injured, and there was not a single case of serious sickness. The men landed in splendid morale, with keen, confident and eager spirit."

"The physical appearance of our men is truly inspiring. They are all fine, husky young fellows, with the glow of energy, good health and physical vigor which will make them a credit alongside any troops. They are exceptionally well camped and cared for, with substantial wooden barracks, good beds, good food and the best sanitary arrangements. They are located on high ground. For all of this we are deeply indebted to French co-operation with members of my staff."

Seen And Heard In New York

By RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—So E. G. Wodehouse, the English humorist, is dazed by his enormous movie salary.

He was paid $204,000 for his first year in Hollywood, but feels he didn't earn it, because all he did was a little retouching of other writers' dialog.

No wonder he was dazed. Wodehouse is used to working for his living.

Sometimes he worked and received nothing. That was when he first came to New York.

His first job in England was in a bank at a few shillings a week. Prospects were not too promising. Some how he began writing. On what little money he was able to save he came to America.

Arriving here broke, or nearly so, he made friends among the newspaper men of Park Row. His fund of humor and his convivial habits ingratiated him with a band of them who lived in the scribblers' colony on Washington Square. Lacking funds, Wodehouse shared their rooms, treating the boys at the frequent bar whenever he sold a piece of foolery.

Often he failed to sell his tales. Once he turned over a manuscript to one of his supposed friends, who happened to be a literary agent. The pal peddled the story to a magazine, but forgot to give Wodehouse his share of the check.

Wodehouse still enquires about the agent's whereabouts when he comes to town, although the debt has been owing since before the war.

Tip-Off
"How does it happen," F. D. M. writes, "that one sees so many snapshots of young society matrons and debutantes strolling on Park avenue? Do photographers have regular corners where they stand, like apple sellers, waiting for chic ladies of the haughty tribe to approach their ready cameras?"

It is more simple. Mrs. Very Rich Mate's social secretary, usually telephones the press that Mrs. V. R. M. or her daughter will be at a certain place at a certain time.

Beauties, Beware
Incidentally, most of our letters are from girls who want to know how to become mannequins. Our elevator operator even confided that his 200-pound wife aspires to be a corset model.

They have heard somewhere that models who act as clothes props in the Fifth Avenue shops or pose for advertisements receive fabulous salaries.

In reality, few have a prima donna's income. Most of them earn less than a show girl, because the majority must depend on odd jobs—posing a few hours at one place today and a few hours somewhere else next week.

Even if a girl becomes a "stap" model, her fame is limited. How many off Broadway where both have been show girls, know Peggy Fish and Nell O'Day, two of the most successful, although millions have seen their faces and forms in cigaret and lingerie advertisements? Nor are the models exempt from unemployment. Many a beautiful maiden left Fifth Avenue for the old home town last year, returning to mother's cooking.

Which is probably the best answer to the yearning girls who are still at home.

Giving a victim the works is mild sport compared to giving a kid the fireworks.

As Wilkins might say of his submarine venture: "It's Nautilus, but nice."

BROADCASTERS TO TALK OVER ILLS OF RADIO

Association Pledges Itself to Find Remedy for Complaints

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
Washington—(CPA)—“What’s wrong with radio” will be the keynote of the meeting of the National Association of Broadcasters in San Francisco next month.

These men behind the microphone who make and stage the programs we hear, will get together to diagnose radio’s ills. They are mindful of the growing wave of resentment against over-commercialized programs or indiscreet “plugging,” and they intend to provide a remedy.

Every phase of broadcasting will be considered by the conference. Philip G. Loucks, managing director of the association, declared today. In so new an industry, he explained, new problems always are cropping out. And because this industry is so close to the hearts of the people, the utmost care must be exercised in their consideration.

All broadcasting stations west of the Mississippi have been invited to the sessions on July 21 and 22. About 100 already have pledged attendance.

Not Regular Meet
It is not the regular annual convention of the association but an extraordinary meeting to coordinate the general activities of stations. The annual convention will be held this fall in Detroit.

Problems of mutual interest to the broadcasters, congress and the federal radio commission are on the agenda. Senator Dill, of Washington, radio leader of the senate will address the broadcast—on legislation pending in congress and get their ideas on what should be written into the radio laws in order. In this regard, A. LaFont, will discuss radio commission activities and exchange views with the broadcasters representing broadcasting generally. Henry A. Dellow, vice-president of Columbia Broadcasting system; Don B. Gilman, vice-president of National Broadcasting Co.; and J. J. Jansky, Jr., radio engineer, will address the sessions on broadcasting trends and tribulations. Mr. Jansky will discuss particularly recent engineering developments and their relation to public service.

No small share of the discussions will be devoted to the vexatious question of too much advertising. Chairman Charles M. Seltzman of the radio commission recently said it was up to this association “to put the radio’s house in order.” In this regard, A code of ethics adopted by the association about a year ago frowns upon excessive advertising blurbs. It is the plan to draft modifications for this code, making its terms more explicit and, where it is believed necessary, tightening up its provisions.

Your Birthday

“CANCER”

If July 1st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 5:15 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to midnight. The danger hours are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

The astrological aspects of July 1st indicated a day full of anxiety and paved with obstacles. One should be extremely careful and thrifty in all money matters and refrain from leaping into any new enterprise. It is a day full of disappointments; do not let it discourage you!

Children born on this July 1st will have a very all-round character. They will have a great deal of natural ability, but will show no marked ability in any particular line of work until later years. They should be encouraged in all things musical and artistic as they can attain their greatest success in this line.

Born on July 1st, you are imaginative and impulsive and are always eager to experience new thrills and see new sights. You are talented and can apply yourself to almost any work that calls for creative ability and a strong power of concentration. However, you have a restless nature which you should try to control, as you are apt to quit a lucrative position and take on some other form of work just for the change. Try not to be so unsettled; concentrate your attention on one thing at a time!

The artistic sense is very keenly developed in those born on this day and they will find great happiness in the pursuit of music. This applies particularly to the women as the men are a trifle too practical and are more inclined to the business world. You have strong likes and dislikes and are a trifle too impressionable. Your greatest fault is that you are too quick to judge others and find it difficult to yield an inch in your viewpoint once your mind is made up. You should be more lenient.

You will be successful rather early in life and will travel extensively in later years. You will always shine in the social world and you have the ability to enjoy yourself wherever you go. You are affectionate and lovable.

Successful People Born July 1st:
1—Alexander the Great.
2—William J. Boone—First missionary bishop to China.
3—Albert E. Hart—historian.
4—Harry L. Keweenaw—poet.
5—James E. Russell—dean of Teachers’ College, Columbia University.
6—Sir Robert Ball—astronomer.

How To Play Contract Bridge

By Wubur C. Whitehead

A MINOR SUIT TAKE OUT OF A NO TRUMP CONVERTED INTO A GAME

South 1 N. T. Pass 3 ♣ Pass
West Pass 2 ♠ 3 ♣ Pass
North 2 ♣ Pass 4 ♣ Pass
East Pass Pass Pass

In the above deal North and South have a game at Clubs and it really makes no difference which one really names that suit. However, since I believe in making an original No Trump bid, rather than an introductory suit bid, when holding a No Trump distribution, I prefer an opening bid of One No Trump rather than One Club when holding South’s hand.

At Contract there can be no doubt but what North should keep the bidding open for South. Likewise, since he has not in reality a direct raise for the No Trump, he should do so by taking out with Two Clubs.

At Auction there has been some argument as to the advisability of taking a No Trump out with a Minor suit unless it should be from extreme length and weakness, or a decided probability of going game with such Minor suit as trump.

Experience at Contract, however, has confirmed the theory that holding such an unbalanced hand as North holds, a preliminary take-out should be made and that it should in nowise be interpreted as an absolute sign of weakness. Salient Points of Bidding

Contract: South opens the bidding with One No Trump. West with a solid Heart suit and two side Queen keeps quiet. There is indeed little chance for him to go game and he stands a better chance of defeating game for North and South with the hand played at No Trump, rather than at some other declaration which a bid of Two Hearts might induce. North takes out with Two Clubs, and East passing, South bids Four Clubs, for it being recognized that the take-out is not weakness, there would appear to be a good chance for game at Clubs. West passes and North, with just a shade more probable trick value than necessary for the take-out, bids Five Clubs, concluding the bidding.

Auction: South opens the bidding with One No Trump. West passes and North takes out with Two Clubs. East and South pass and West bids Two Hearts. North and East pass and South bids Three Clubs. West bids Three Hearts, not with the expectation of making it but in hopes of saving game at a slight loss in view of his honor holding. North bids Four Clubs, concluding the bidding.

The Play
The respective openings at Contract and Auction would be different. At Contract East would open his fourth best, Diamond. At Auction he would open his high Heart since partner has bid that suit.

Since in reality it makes no difference, we will assume the Heart to be opened. West takes the trick with the Jack and leads the Ace, which Declarer trumps.

Declarer takes three rounds of trumps, the last in his own hand. He then leads the Jack of Spades in order to take the finesse. This finesse loses to West’s Queen, but North and South make the remainder of the tricks for one of Dummy’s Diamonds may be discarded upon one of Declarer’s Spades.

Mr. Whitehead will answer one question at a time concerning your bridge problems. Write to him in care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

SAYS PRIESTS ACTING FOR “FOREIGN POWER”

Vera Cruz, Mex.—(AP) Charging that Catholic priests in Mexico are representatives of “a foreign power” and are a burden on the public, Gov. Adalberto Tejeda Monday asked the district court to uphold the recently enacted state law placing restrictions on the church.
In a counter-petition to an action brought by priests for an injunction against application of the law, which limits the number of priests allowed to officiate in the state to 11, the governor declared that because of “arrangements” between the Italian government and the Vatican the priests were in fact representatives of a foreign power.
He described them as “parasites who spend the people’s money needlessly in building churches,” declaring that the money could be put to better purpose in providing schools, hospitals and other public services from Mexico.

RASKOB HAS PRAISE FOR HOOVER DEBT PLAN

New York—(AP)—John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National committee, has only praise for President Hoover’s debt suspension plan. He said it would stabilize world conditions, if accepted by the powers.

Mr. Raskob, accompanied by his daughter Elizabeth, arrived from a European tour Sunday night on the Bremen.

The debt moratorium, he said, would in no way affect the coming political campaign, because “such a constructive step should not be weighed politically, as it is of too far-reaching importance.”

The Bremen was delayed 11 hours as a result of President Hoover’s plan. More than $25,000,000 in German gold was removed from the vessel when news of the plan was heard in Germany.

Anna May Wong Is Able To Talk Several Tongues

BY JESSIE HENDERSON

Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
Hollywood—(CPA)—Anna May Wong returned to Hollywood after four years in Europe, says her greatest thrill over there came when she found that all her life she had been speaking Chinese with an American accent. “Perhaps you didn’t know this could be done,” she remarked today, “and I didn’t know it could, either. But evidently I did it.”

Anna May was born and educated in Los Angeles and while she talked English in school, she talked Chinese with her family and friends. “I had always talked freely and seemingly perfectly in Chinese at home,” she explained, “but when I was talking in Chinese to the wife of a Chinese consul in Europe she interrupted me. ‘Miss Wong,’ she said, ‘let’s talk English. You speak charming Chinese—but your accent is so American!’ So I went to a Chinese tutor. “It seems I had an American accent for any language at all when I went abroad four years ago. The London stage reviewers objected because as a Chinese girl in a play I talked English like an American. I replied that an English accent for a Chinese girl would be just as much out of place. However, I decided that if the English wanted me to talk broken English with an Oxford accent, I’d do it. So I went to an English tutor. My Oxford accent cost me 20 guineas. It’s a good one. I brought it back with me, to protect my investment.”

“Then I made my talking picture debut in a Chinese story in German. I could speak and read German, but when we made tests the director tore his hair because my American accent cent crept into the German words. So I went to a German tutor, and when the picture was shown in Berlin the critics said that my lines must have been doubled by a German actress. When they discovered their mistake, they said certain German actresses might take lessons from me on their own language.”

“This was fine, but we still had a French version to make. So I went to a French tutor, and that time no complaints were registered. Oh, yes, I can still talk American, too.”

SUMMER SESSION OPENS AT STATE UNIVERSITY

Madison —(P)—The annual University of Wisconsin summer session will open here today with an enrollment of approximately 4,500 students. Classes will continue for six weeks.

In addition to the regular courses offered for university credit, a series of other projects will be conducted. A band clinic opened yesterday, and offers scheduled courses of study for directors, leading the formation of an all-Wisconsin band to be composed of boys and girls from all parts of the state. Radio listeners will be afforded education during the summer session with the university station, WHA, broadcasting the course in music appreciation. It will be broadcast daily for 30 minutes beginning at 10:30 o'clock each morning.

30 BILLS CAUGHT IN LAST WEEK FILIBUSTER

Madison —(P)—About 30 bills were caught in the filibuster that ended the legislative last week.

Only a half dozen of the measures were of prime importance but others would undoubtedly have become law had not the filibuster clogged the legislative wheels.

The Fong-Goodland bill for unemployment relief, a chain store tax bill, a bill for state aid to high schools, a measure on congressional and legislative reapportionment and an eight-hour working day bill were the major measures, which died.

Others proposed a state bonding fund, regulation of special bridge construction, regulation of soda water dispensers, sale of timber on state lands, investment of surplus funds of municipally owned utilities, state aid for county forest reserves, fidelity bonds of officers and employees of banks and an appropriation to the conservation commission.

The committee to lay plans for Wisconsin's part in the Chicago Centennial of Progress was left without a $25,000 appropriation when the legislature adjourned. A bill to limit the state university in the acceptance of gifts from private and corporate sources also died.

Only one word spoiled defeat for the chain store tax bill. A stenographic error in the bill which would have left a loophole in the taxation of chain stores caused the measure to be sent back to the senate for correction but the filibuster prevented final approval of the measure.

About 50 friends and relatives visited campers at Onaway Island Sunday evening. The tent leaders, accompanied by Dorothy Cahn, director, and Catherine Dietzel, had a picnic at the end of Otter creek. At the Sunday night campfire, "Scouts Own" services took place.

Take a pencil and list the things your child can do in a day. List a couple of home chores. Arrange for a play place. Give him things to play with so he can really play, not look on while the boy who owns the hall and the bat enjoys himself. Arrange for trips for him. And picnics. Let him go on the Sunday school excursion, to the shore with the class. Plan for a busy summer first by the week, then by the day. It sounds hard but it works easily once you start.

The children who go to summer camp have their days planned. The children at home are not in any better position to plan their own days that are these children whom days have been planned for them. While they were in school their days were mapped out for them. Home must do the same thing. An ordered day, a well planned summer

Child Needs To Have His Time Planned

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Bully, will you let your little sister alone? Now I've told you that for the last time. Go and do some thing."

"What'll I do? I haven't anything to do."

"Yes you have. Go and find something."

"I don't know what to do. I haven't anybody to play with. Can I go over to Jimmie's house?"

"No you can't. Jimmie's mother is busy. What with watching Jimmie and tending the baby she's as busy as she can be. You stay right home here and find something to do."

"There's nothing to do round here. Nobody to play with. Nothing. I'm sick of living here. Can't find anything to do. Won't let you go any place. Wish school lasted all year, that's what I wish."

"Bully Smithers you just go find something to do. That's all."

We have to be more definite than that. When we tell a child to do something we say nothing at all to help. There must be a place to go, a specific job to be done. That means somebody must think out what is to be done every day and offer a choice of schemes for the consideration of the active children home from school.

Take a pencil and list the things your child can do in a day. List a couple of home chores. Arrange for a play place. will bring health and peace and happiness to the children and the home. The program is not to be ironclad. There must always be room for change, variation, the unexpected. If Aunt Joy comes along with a car and says, "How about a ride to the hills?" the whole program can go for the day and the ride take its place. The idea is to let the child feel that he is a part of an ordered scheme of living and not a loose end left dangling when school cut the thread of routine.

A child who has no definite idea of what he is to do during the day is unhappy. That means his tone is lowered and that means that his growth is checked. A few hours of thoughtful planning solves the difficulty.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1929 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

I'M going to report you to the landlady. Think that will stop you?" the cool, cynical tones rang on.

"No, go and report. See if I care!"

Sue reflected almost unconsciously that she might have been Corinne. Her sister would have flared back at the man this way.

A few minutes later the landlady came to the door, explained that it was too late for such disturbances as the pounding of typewriter keys, and departed. Sue thought she heard a chuckle across the hall.

"But I'm not through with you," she told the young man, through the partition, although she said it so low that he couldn't hear her. At the minute she didn't realize how true her words were.

And to make matters worse Sue lost her job the next day. She wouldn't go home and admit it to her family. She would find another one, she agreed. Find it and keep busy. But jobs were as hard to find in the new city as in the old one. Two days passed. The mail didn't bring a letter from Jack. But it took two away from Sue.

Coming in just at dusk one evening Sue noticed two shadowy shapes silhouetted on the landing above. She heard Sarah say:

"So you finally waylaid me, did you, Billie Burton? Won't you sit down on the steps and be sociable? We could gossip about our neighbors if we knew them. As it is, I guess we'll have to talk about ourselves."

"That's exactly what I wanted to do," the man voice answered. He sat down along the edge of the banisters and swung one leg over the other.

Sue didn't want to eavesdrop but she didn't want to interrupt. She went into the small reception room and sat down on a slippery chair with a back that was at least two feet higher than her head. She wondered why people had ever invested in such massive furniture. Someone in the room cleared his throat. Sue swung around. The tall young man who had asked her not to type was reading a paper, as though waiting for someone.

"Don't go. It's a public waiting room," he told Sue. "Did you finish your manuscript the other night? What were you doing? Practicing up to get a job?"

Still not understanding why this man antagonized her so, Sue shook her head. "No. I had one." That was the truth. She had had one then even if she had lost it such a few hours later. Maybe he would not notice the use of the past tense in her verb. She wondered if her antipathy was a throw-back to the natural warfare that some writers claimed existed always between men and women.

"Well, there wasn't anything very rhythmic about my typing. I'd hate to have you in my office," the man answered. Sue remembered the rows of asterisks she had made just to keep her hands busy. Of course they had been monotonous. But speedy. And she had craved speed.

Sue arose and walked into the hall. She would have to interrupt the teatime.

"But why won't you marry me?" she heard Dr. Burton ask Sarah. Sue knew that he didn't realize how his voice carried. In the dim light from the hall lamp Sue saw Sarah's face. She glanced at the girl at the foot of the stairs and her lips framed the words, "Say something."

"She can't. She's marrying someone else," Sue answered.

"What?" Sue sprung around quickly. Ted had arisen from another of the high-backed chairs which had been turned away from the public view.

NEXT: Sue goes to dinner.

The smell of fresh paint gives many people a headache, and to none is it an especially agreeable odor. Here is a way to handle a freshly painted room: Place a paper bag containing several pieces of charcoal in the room and close it up tightly. Another effective remedy for the trouble is an onion sliced into small pieces and put into a pail of water. Set the pail of water in the room and the water and onions will absorb the odor.

She Couldn't EAT or SLEEP

"I feel like a new Woman"

"ABOUT six months ago I was run-down and a friend of mine told me about your medicine."

"I got a bottle and started taking it. I was so weak and nervous, my appetite wasn't good at all. I couldn't eat and of course I lost my strength. In fact I have never been healthy."

"After I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my nerves were lots better. I can sleep well and I have a real good appetite. I feel like a new woman."

Illustrated Dressmaking Lesson
Furnished With Every Lesson

Here are lovely slenderizing lines for the matronly figure.

You'll love the new skirt cut with its clever diagonal lines, to reduce hip bulk. The crossover bodice has applied band trim that is very effective and becoming besides producing a flat line much appreciated by the larger figure.

Printed crepe silk is an excellent medium for this model. Plain blending shade crepe is used for bands and bow. Eyelet organdie makes the tiny vest.

Style No. 3173 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust. Size 36 requires 4 yards 39-inch with 3 yard 35-inch contrasting and 3 yard 3-inch lace.

For resort, a grey and white printed linen is smart with plain trim, with white organdie inserted at necking.

Shantung, georgette crepe and printed voile are splendid ideas for its development.

Our large Summer Fashion book offers a wide choice for your summer wardrobe in darling styles for the children as well as the adults.

FATIGUE IS OFTEN DUE TO FOOT TROUBLE

BY ALICIA HART

Summer fatigue often is due to foot trouble. If you are right with your feet, you usually are right with the world. Being right with your feet means certain rules for foot happiness are being followed with care and intelligence.

The first of these is that you are wearing shoes long enough. An extra ten pounds of weight may mean that you need an extra half-length in your shoes. And it also may mean an extra half-length in the stocking size that you usually buy. For short stockings, like short shoes, can be the cause of bunions.

If you can alternate your shoes so that you change the pair you wear each day, it is a great help towards foot comfort.

Your stockings should be absolutely fresh each day, and if you go out in the evening, you should change to a fresh pair again.

It isn't a superhuman task to rinse out your hose each day. The effort is well worth while when you realize how much your feet appreciate the care.

Try Salt Baths

Of course everybody knows in this enlightened day that the feet themselves should be washed daily. But I wonder if you ever have tried a hot salt bath for them, with a cold rinse afterward, a great help toward comfort. And about once or twice a week, it hardens them to better withstand the heat of hot pavements.

When you finish with your morning bath, dust your feet with a bath or foot powder prepared especially for them. Then put a little powder into your shoes. Before you put on your shoes, pull your stockings by the toes so there is a little room for expansion. This prevents the stockings from cramping your toes.

In trimming the toe nails, try to cut them straight across. Curved tips are apt to make for ingrown nails. You can't be too careful in this thing called foot comfort. Every precaution and every bit of attention you give your feet will be repaid you with interest if you achieve real foot ease.

In hot summer, it is priceless. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

OUT SHINING THE OTHER WOMAN — YOUNG UNREQUITTED LOVE CAN BE FORGOTTEN

Dear Virginia Vane: My husband has suddenly become attracted to a neighbor of mine—a woman very attractive and younger than myself. He seems unable to take his eyes off her when they meet, and although I am not unattractive myself, still he hardly looks at me when she is around. I know they have no secret meetings, and indeed hardly speak to each other but my love is turning to cold resentment. I cannot forgive my husband for the way he acts, and want nothing more to do with him. He denies any knowledge of this attraction when I accuse him. It's getting so I don't want to speak to him. When I have anything against anyone I'm just through—and that's that. Will you advise me what to do about this?

HELEN G.

If your intention is to send your husband sailing straight into the arms of the other woman, you're certainly moving along the right lines at present. Your attitude is calculated to turn any man away from you, no matter how deeply convinced he is that he ought to stick to his wife and home.

Why make yourself more unattractive than the other woman? Why show yourself to be the unforgiving school teacher who is never going to stop reminding the small boy of the crime he has committed?

By constant accusations and nagging, you keep alive in your husband's mind, a thought which he is perhaps doing his best to dismiss.

If you're made up your mind that you're THROUGH—then, as you say, that's that and there isn't much use in advising you at all. But if you're secretly anxious to smooth things out, and to get the situation back to normalcy—then for goodness' sake, don't give the other woman all the tricks by making her a romantic attractive figure, and yourself a nagging shrew.

So far there hasn't been a love affair — there's just been a strong attraction which you've noticed. Why not counteract that strong feeling of his for the other woman by doing your damndest to provide something charming in the way of a home companion. Don't consider that a move such as this is below your dignity.

Dozens and hundreds of intelligent charming women have kept their husbands faithful by tact and good management—love, men and women who love their husbands are willing to cut out her rival in the best way possible—instead of resorting to tears, and a constant repetition of the well-worn phrase: "How could you, how could you?"

If you want your husband, keep him away from your rival by showing him that in losing you he's losing a delightful companion, a true sympathetic friend, and a dear wife. That sort of argument is more convincing than all the angry scenes, and accusatory phrases in the world.

Develop Other Interests

LONESOME LOVER: Most of your problems would be solved if you would manage to take an interest in some other boys. Because you're concentrating on this one particular hero—who is obviously not prepared to take your friendship at all seriously—you are constantly hurt and disappointed. You have built so much hope on your relationship with him, that the slightest change in his mood affects you unpleasantly and causes you endless suffering and worry.

Because you want to be in love with him, you gladly turn your back on other boys—you're really pleased to be able to say that there isn't anyone else in the world for you but him. Actually this isn't any good. He hasn't asked you to give up the world for his sake. He doesn't seem inclined to suggest that your friendship is going to have its end in marriage. So what's the sense of making it your big life romance?

Just try to take an interest in something outside him—and be particularly careful not to turn down invitations from other men. They may teach you to be more philosophical about this disappointing Romeo. And in time you may begin to realize that you've placed too much importance on the actions and words of one perfectly average everyday boy.

You won't like following this advice but you'll like getting back your common-sense one of these days—and that can only return to you after you've stepped being love-sick about a man who obviously isn't prepared to respond.

TWO COURSES OPEN ON NEW COURT SYSTEM

Councils May Appoint Judge
at Once or Wait Until Spring Election

Menasha—Although the bill allowing creation of a municipal court system in Menasha and Neenah has been signed by Governor LaFollette, and two alternatives for local procedure are open to the common councils of the two cities, no definite stand has been taken by city officials Tuesday.

The bill allows the two councils, by joint action, to temporarily select the municipal judge who would serve until the general elections in April. It requires that the salaries of the judge, court clerk, and the two alternative bodies and should the council members deem it advisable, the court may be created almost immediately.

A second alternative is to await the general elections in April for selection of the judge for a six-year term, city officials stated. The judge is to be selected from among the practicing attorneys in the two cities and named by Menasha and Neenah voters exclusively. A definite course of action will probably be determined in the near future, officials stated.

The bill to allow creation of the court was passed in the state senate and assembly without opposition and signed by the governor last week. It was proposed by the attorneys of both cities, and sanctioned by the common councils of both cities in Menasha unanimously, and in Neenah by a nine to one vote.

The court will meet alternately in the two cities, and will have jurisdiction over civil cases up to $50,000, and criminal cases except those involving murder or manslaughter. Jurors will be selected from Menasha and Neenah exclusively.

DISCUSS LOCATION OF SOFTBALL DIAMOND

Menasha—The position of the industrial league softball diamond and the proposed removal of a large tree in the city park was discussed by park board members in a special meeting at the park Monday evening. The tree has interfered with activities on the softball diamond, but its removal has been opposed by several park authorities who maintain that a slight change in the position of the diamond will eliminate the difficulty. Final action is expected at a special meeting at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The city park wading pool was reopened Monday, equipped with a dam and gate at each end, and filled with filtered water. The pool is available for children during the day, while swimming instruction for adults will be given at the deeper end of the pool each evening, authorities stated. J. Lepp, city park life guard, will direct the work.

Menasha—Payment of the second installment on real property taxes in Menasha was to have been completed at the office of C. A. Heckrodt, city treasurer, at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. About $5,000 would be unpaid at the close of the period, Heckrodt estimated.

Under Menasha's bi-payment system, 50 per cent of real property taxes, plus all special assessments, may be paid in January, while the remainder, plus a 1 per cent fee, may be paid on or before June 30. A 12 per cent interest charge will be made on taxes unpaid after that date, Heckrodt stated.

80 GRADE CROSSING PROJECTS PROVIDE WORK FOR JOBLESS

Report Shows 3,380,000
Man-hours Result from State Program

Madison—(CP)—The program of 80 grade crossing separations projected in the 1931 highway law is giving 3,380,000 man hours of work, according to a report made to the state senate by John T. Donaghey, chief engineer for the state emergency commission on unemployment relief in response to a resolution by Sen. George W. Blanchard, Edgerton. The 81 projects now underway will give 2,154,750 work hours.

"There has been some delay on a few projects," Mr. Donaghey stated, "because of the insistence of the commission that the funds available be used to assist labor in so far as possible and not used to purchase expensive real estate for right-of-way or to pay unreasonable damages on abutting property."

Because the resolution calling for the report was adopted last Thursday the legislature was scheduled to adjourn Saturday, the unemployment commission did not have time to meet to approve the report. Mr. Donaghey said, but pointed out that Herman L. Elbern, chairman of the board, approved it.

In addition to sketching rulings and giving details of employment, the report tells of the work of the commission. Twenty days after its organization the commission advertised for bids on 14 projects, and let them after the session which begins in December, 1932. By that time it will be apparent just what may be expected from the present tax rates and just what the business activity of the country may produce in the way of a surplus over the estimates on tax receipts.

Another factor of major importance is governmental economy. The budget for next year is undoubtedly going to be slashed materially. Just as soon, however, as there is a surplus the tendency will be to increase the governmental budget to take care of those activities which will have been temporarily suspended.

Entirely apart from its effect on the business situation, the war debt holiday is going to play a part in revising the budget of all countries including the United States.

EXPERTS THINK REVISION SURE FOR YOUNG PLAN

Europe More Optimistic Because of American Activity in Readjustment

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1931 By Post Pub. Co.

Washington—(CPA)—Although the international debt holiday is proposed for one year only there is a growing conviction that the schedule of payments now in effect will never be resumed and that a revision of the Young plan is inevitable.

Naturally very little is being said about this at present as the American government can take only one step at a time. If Germany, however, cannot pay four hundred and twenty-five million dollars this year she certainly cannot afford such a sum next year and there is also the question of how to spread the payments that now are being postponed so that they will not have to be paid back in any one year.

Much of the optimism about the Hoover proposal which has come from Europe and has its repercussion in the United States is based on the idea that for the first time since the war the United States is to take an active part in readjusting the war debt problem.

No Cancellation

American finances are in such good shape notwithstanding the deficit this year that another schedule of annuities could be absorbed without serious difficulty. Even if America were willing, the European powers would hesitate to forego payments from Germany altogether and there is indeed no thought of outright cancellation at this time.

The most that anybody here expects is that the creditor nations will spread the annuities from a 62 year to an 80 year basis.

As far as the United States is concerned if the revision of the Young plan were accompanied by a revision of the funding agreements between the United States and the allied countries so that one hundred and fifty million dollars would be forthcoming each year instead of two hundred and fifty million, the difference would not be a serious matter if business conditions returned to normal. The United States government has had a surplus for the past 11 years averaging three hundred and thirteen millions of dollars. Tax rates have been steadily going down but sizeable surpluses have nevertheless been possible. All these surpluses have been used to retire the public debt in addition to large fund payments.

Thus the present fiscal year which ends this week will show a deficit of about eight hundred and fifty million dollars of this sum was used to retire the public debt as required by law so that the net increase in America's outstanding debt for the year was about four hundred million dollars. This record in perhaps the worst year of depression in American history is evidence of the effectiveness of the taxing power of the federal government and also a sign that the present tax rate probably will not be touched in any material way especially if business begins to approach normal next year.

Natural political party in the United States will want to sponsor a higher tax rate on the eve of the presidential election of 1932, so the discussion of what increases of taxes will be necessary to meet changing conditions, namely the effects of the depression and the suspension of war debt payments, will hardly come under consideration by congress until the session which begins in December, 1932. By that time it will be apparent just what may be expected from the present tax rates and just what the business activity of the country may produce in the way of a surplus over the estimates on tax receipts.

New York—(CPA)—Monday's latest reports of the Spanish national election remove all doubt as to a sweeping separatist victory in Catalonia and bring up-stage in Europe one Francisco Macia, three years ago a fugitive in Europe and South America, and now president of the Catalan generalities.

Colonial Macia is what might be known as a distance man in international conspiracy. For many years he fought for Catalan autonomy and was accused of drawing support for his movement from South American republics. In 1927 the French government arrested him at Prats-step at a time. If Germany, however, cannot pay four hundred and twenty-five million dollars this year she certainly cannot afford such a sum next year and there is also the question of how to spread the payments that now are being postponed so that they will not have to be paid back in any one year.

for the takeoff to Fairbanks and retiring there as soon as they could arrange to leave the Winnie Mae in the hands of experts for grooming.

Overhaul Plane

The Winnie Mae was under the care of eight mechanics within a few minutes after it landed here.

The mechanics immediately drained the oil from the motor, refilled it, then went over the entire plane, looking for worn or strained parts. The motor was greased and tightened and a new propeller was fitted in place of the one bent at Solomon.

Post's chief interest seemed to be in getting a bath and a bed. Gatty, after his arm, hurt by the flying propeller at Solomon, was dressed, appeared more rested. His arm was bruised, the doctor said, and probably will be stiff for several weeks.

Mechanics said the plane was in fair condition, but doubted if it would have been able to continue to New York without work and a new propeller. While the men checked and adjusted the mechanical part of the ship others were giving it a bath.

The log book was filled with weather references such as "tough going" then "ditto" and "passing over tree tops in rain and fog."

A police guard was placed outside their door when they retired so they would be assured of rest.

Winnington, Del.—The circus was coming to town, and all of the children were set to go. But they were doomed to disappointment. When the circus arrived at the field, it was a sea of mud. # RELIGION NOT LOST CAUSE, RABBI HOLDS

Man Is Religious Whether
He Admits It or Not,
Club Members Told

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The question discussed by the Rabbi Hersberg, Milwaukee, at a meeting of Rotarians and Lions Monday evening at the Elwood hotel. The speaker said that while some regard religion as lost to the world, many believe that never was religion deeper in the hearts of more men and women.

The speaker admitted an indifference toward things religious. He stated that the reasons those people give is that they have drifted away from churches because it has given them nothing in return. In defense of these facts the Rabbi said that those who say this are ignorant and speak only a part of the truth. "Religion did not fail them, but rather their mere profession of religion," he said. Had religion really been failed, it could not have proven a failure. We need to discriminate between those who are sincere and those who are not. He said that we have failed religion through our own shallowness.

"Man's religion, originally meant a sense of relationship to a great original reality of this universe. It is the tendency to give existence, to that we are, or enjoy our health, prosperity, our very characters depend upon this relationship in which we stand to things religious.

"Whether he will admit it, man is religious. Why show it by being healthy and caring for health, by being interested in things intellectual and ethically by being honorable, gentle and kind. The spirituality of every human is shown in being as near perfect as he can strive to be, in emotions and feeling of a divine religion.

Religion, the Rabbi continued, should do away with wars. Men should conserve and preserve life, and if this were true all life would be happier since we would live to gether continually in brotherly relationship. "We call ourselves civilized but in reality we are not. If we are it is science and invention which make us so? It is rather that man is civilized as his ethical nature is brought out. This process may all be traced back to the basic principles of religion."

FIRES CREATE PROBLEMS FOR BRILLION BODY

Large Holes Burned Into
Ground, Land Worthless,
Review Board Told

Special to Post-Crescent
Forest Junction—Land values in the marsh area of town Brillion near the Rantoul boundary occasioned considerable discussion at the town board of review session here Monday. Fires of unprecedented proportions raging there late last summer and in the early fall have rendered portions of the tract virtually worthless by reason of large holes which have been burnt into the ground. A tract belonging to Theodore Lau is said to have been burned to an even depth of about four or five feet over its entire area.

A town road leading into the region has been similarly affected. Henry Becker, town chairman, in reporting the results of an investigation, said that holes burned into the stretch make it impossible to grade there with the tractor and with horses, it would be a task for several months. And then the only material available for scraping would be the resultant ashes.

The board of review was having a two-day session. The Monday session was held at the town hall here. Tuesday's session was held in Brillion village to accommodate land owners on the east side.

QUARANTINE WILL AID FIGHT ON PEST

Prohibition on Shipments Goes Into Effect on Aug. 1

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—Wisconsin will receive valuable aid in its fight against barberry as a carrier of black stem rust with its blighting effect on grain when the new quarantine regulations go into effect Aug. 1 prohibiting the shipment of rush susceptible plants among the 13 north central states now engaged in barberry eradication.

Under the present regulation, Wisconsin and 12 neighbor states are protected by a quarantine forbidding the shipment of rust-susceptible plants from the other 35 states and the District of Columbia into their borders. But following 18 years of unsuccessful effort to stamp out the grain destroying rust, the protected states asked the government to extend the barberry quarantine to shipments among themselves. This petition is granted under the provision of the revised quarantine announced by the Secretary of Agriculture to take effect beginning Aug. 1.

The other states engaged in the fight against black stem rust are Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wyoming.

Barberry plants, with the exception of certain immune varieties such as the Japanese barberry, become infected with black stem rust of wheat, oats, barley and rye and in turn spread the infection over long distances to grain fields. Rust infection spreads rapidly in grain, which it shrivels until it sometimes is scarcely worth harvesting. Great losses have resulted from

... SEE that New Iso-Vis will not thin out from dilution"

RESULTS
of Indianapolis Speedway Tests.
Certified by A. A. A.

- 1 Iso-Vis Motor Oil did not thin out from dilution.
- 2 During the entire test of 9,000 miles, the engines and chassis of all cars were lubricated effectively.
- 3 Oil Added: only 63/100 of a quart—average for all cars—of Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy) in 1000 mile test at 30 miles per hour.

Watch for the ISO-VIS TEST CARS

15 Iso-Vis test cars used at Indianapolis Speedway in intensive lubrication study conducted by A. A. A. are now on individual tours to auto dealers throughout the Mid-West. Watch for them.

There's more body an oil has, the slower the ball drops. Note that used New Iso-Vis (Tube 2) has practically the same body as the fresh oil (Tube 1), while used "x" oil (Tube 3) has thinned out decidedly.

JUST 3 seconds of your time and a flip of the wrist—that's all it takes for you to make this interesting test. You'll probably get a big surprise from watching the balls sink through the oil to the bottom of each bottle.

"What these little steel balls tell you is the gospel truth—New Iso-Vis will not thin out from dilution. And what's more, it's the only motor oil that will stand up like this.

"Here's a challenge. Fill up with New Iso-Vis. Then when it's time to drain, come in. Try your own oil in the Ball and Bottle Test. See for yourself that New Iso-Vis will not thin out from dilution."

Stribling And Max Schmeling Complete Training Grind

GEORGE BLAKE WILL REFEREE HEAVY FIGHT

Manager of Fidel LaBarba Unanimous Choice as Third Man in Ring

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
CLEVELAND (AP)—Young Stribling, confident and care-free, winds up five weeks of intensive training tonight in his quest for the world's heavyweight championship.

The smiling young Georgian, challenging Max Schmeling, the German title holder, will do his final boxing in the coat of arms at his camp, Georgia Lake, Stribling, regarding his condition as perfect, plans to breeze through a light workout of four rounds. After the last glove goes swishing through the air, Stribling will desert his camp, that has been his home since early May and go into seclusion, occupying a residence in an exclusive residential district at Cleveland.

Stribling's last battle will be with Max Schmeling, the German title holder, who will do his final boxing in the coat of arms at his camp, Georgia Lake, Stribling, regarding his condition as perfect, plans to breeze through a light workout of four rounds. After the last glove goes swishing through the air, Stribling will desert his camp, that has been his home since early May and go into seclusion, occupying a residence in an exclusive residential district at Cleveland.

Ma Schmeling and his Pa will accompany him with Ma doing the cooking and the other caring for her son until he jumps into the ring to meet Schmeling in the 15-round title battle in Cleveland's new municipal stadium Friday night. Stribling attended a ball game yesterday while his Pa motored over to Com. Schmeling's camp, Pa. did not get a chance to see the German, who was out on the golf links, but inasmuch as Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, was in Cleveland attending a conference on the referee situation, the elder Stribling expressed a desire to see Will McCarney, a member of the firm Schmeling incorporated.

The elder Stribling, with one of the camp attendants as a guide started out for the Schmeling, cottage. McCarney was about to take a bath when a knock on the door disturbed him.

"Hey Will, here's old man Stribling to see you," the camp attendant yelled.

"Oh, is that so?" McCarney responded. "Well, kick him one for me and get the hell away from here."

About that time McCarney was convinced that Stribling was actually there, but Pa had no time to stay and left shortly for Cleveland.

Schmeling enjoyed a day of rest yesterday, preparatory to finishing up his training today and tomorrow. The smiling young German intends to do only light work today, boxing possibly four or five rounds. The finish tomorrow will also be of the lightest nature. Schmeling intends to loaf and play his usual game of golf on Thursday and depart for Cleveland by motor on Friday morning, arriving just in time to weigh in at noon.

The referee question was settled to the satisfaction of all concerned yesterday with the selection of George Blake of Los Angeles as the third man in the ring. Blake started for Cleveland last night. He will arrive in Chicago Thursday morning and depart immediately by plane for Cleveland. Blake enjoys an enviable record in boxing, for his honesty and respect of others in the sport.

Blake, himself an excellent boxer, has the distinction of having defeated two American Olympic champions, who later became world professional title holders. They are Fidel LaBarba and Jackie Fields. Blake taught them to box while they were members of the Los Angeles club team of which Blake was boxing instructor. Blake holds a referee's license as well as a manager's license on the Pacific coast.

Praised by Edgren
Bob Edgren, noted boxing authority and member of the California state athletic commission, regards the selection of Blake as referee as a master stroke. Edgren regards Blake as the outstanding referee on the Pacific coast and in America. Blake has not referred much due to his managerial connections with LaBarba. He refused the assignment when it was first offered him but was later prevailed upon to accept it. The commission also named the two judges and alternate referee, but their names were withheld until the day of the fight.

Little Fox Gossip

So interested are members of the Neenah nine in their chances of giving that city its first league baseball pennant in several years that star members of the team already have applied for furloughs when they go to camp in July as members of the Twin City National Guard company. These boys, including Fahrtenkrug, hurler, will be allowed to return to Neenah for two Sundays to play ball.

July 5 means a lot to Little Chute's first place team with a double header carded with Green Bay's hard-working nine, the only squad to defeat the Chutes this year. Inspired by the win over the Hollanders the Baymen now have taken three straight, the last two by big margins and are confident they can make it two more Sunday.

If the Bays turn the trick Neenah, by whipping Menasha's tailenders, can take the loop lead from the Chutes whom they have been trailing by a single game all season. Incidentally, the Bays will move into a commanding position in the race themselves.

Appleton, which has been battling the league-leading Little Chute and Neenah teams the last few weeks, now will get a breathing spell and a chance to once more entrench itself close behind the league leaders for the final drive. DePere and Menasha furnish the opposition on those of the next four Sundays with Green Bay the other opponent.

Postponed games yet to be played are between DePere and Green Bay and between DePere and Menasha. The DePeremen have played six games in nine weeks. They were to play two games with Green Bay Sunday to clear up one postponed battle, but the excessive heat forced a change of plans. The only other double bill carded this year is Green Bay at Little Chute Sunday. If possible the DePere-Menasha game will be played off Saturday.

The National softball race became a two way affair yesterday afternoon when the Atlas Mill team did the unexpected and bounced Co. D, 2 and 1 in a postponed game. It was the second defeat this season for the Guards.

Both teams played air tight ball last evening behind clever pitching. The Guards scored a run in the seventh frame when Green drew a walk and advanced around the bases while other mates were being tossed out. The Mill team also scored in the seventh, A. Meyer tallying after getting a hit. Heibel's hit through the box permitted him to score.

Atlas scored the winning run in the ninth inning on a hit by L. Rather who cross the plate on Meyer's long fly.

Wednesday evening Atlas plays the Brands in the feature game of the week. A win for Atlas will put the team among the leaders.

Jim Collins' Hit Gives Cards Win Over Giants; Cleveland Beats Yanks

BY GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
Although Jim Bottomley has recovered from the injury that knocked him out of the Cardinal line-up several weeks ago, his chances of reclaiming his old post at first base for the National league champions appear to be slim.

Jimmy Collins, the slugger from Rochester who got his chance when Bottomley went out, continues to hold down the initial cushion like a veteran and his hitting has been hard and timely. As long as he can maintain his present clip, it is doubtful that Manager Gabby Street will see fit to put the veteran "Sunny Jim" back in the line-up.

If Collins makes the grade, he will be the second rookie to break through the veteran combination that started the campaign for the champions. Pepper Martin, another from the Rochester "Farm," has fought his way to a regular berth in the outfield.

Collins supplied the punch that beat the Giants, 5 to 3, in the first game of their "crucial" series at the Polo Grounds. With two out in the ninth and the score tied, he nicked

BREWERS DROPPED TO THIRD PLACE IN ASSOCIATION

Three Pitchers Fail to Halt Saints Who Win Nod, 9 and 5

CHICAGO (AP)—At the rate the first division clubs in the American association are showing each other around, any team can win 10 or 15 more games than it does, should be able to win the title this season.

St. Paul was back on top today, while Milwaukee, which sat in the whip seat after Sunday's games, was tied for third place with Minneapolis. The Saints had won 37 games while losing 32, while Louisville, today's second place occupant, had won one game less and had lost the same number. Milwaukee also had lost 32 decisions while winning 35.

St. Paul hoisted itself back into the lead yesterday by taking the series final from Milwaukee, 9 to 5. The Saints scored six runs in the first inning at the expense of Dinty Gearlin, Ferrell and Garland Buckey, while Russ Van Alst managed to keep the Brewers in check except in the fourth and sixth innings.

Blues Beat Mills
Kansas City shoved Minneapolis back by taking down a 7 to 2 decision. Billy Bayne gave the Millers only six hits, well scattered except in the third. Young Ed Walsh, making his first start for the Millers, did well enough until the fifth when he was mauled for five runs. Jimmy Brillheart shut the Blues out after trailing over the pitching, but it was too late to help the Millers. Home runs were plentiful, Akers, Dugas and Monahan getting them for the Blues and Ernie Smith knocking one for Minneapolis.

Len Koenecke, Indianapolis outfielder, went on a wild batting rampage as the Indians trounced Columbus, 13 to 6. Koenecke's collection of six for six, including three doubles, two triples and a single. Bob Fitzgerald, another Indian outfielder, contributed a brace of doubles and a pair of singles.

The Louisville-Toledo contest was played as part of Sunday's double-header.

PLAN INTER-STATE J. C. C. GOLF MEET

Wisconsin Team Will Be Picked at Kaukauna Tournament July 4-5

Arrangements for an interstate golf tournament between the best men of the Wisconsin and Illinois junior chamber of commerce were completed this week by Robert Cox of Appleton, state J. C. C. golf champion. Mr. Cox will pick the four best players in the first annual interstate tournament which will be held Saturday and Sunday at the Kaukauna Country club course.

The Illinois champs also will be chosen in a state meet this week. While the date and site have not yet been chosen, the contest probably will be held late in July at Chicago. The winner probably will battle Iowa's best and so on through the middle west.

A soldier firing squad will officially open the tourney at Kaukauna on July 4, followed by the raising of the flag over the course. Mr. Cox announced. Ensign Edward Plesman, an Appleton youth who graduated from Annapolis this summer, will give a short address. Al Nitz will play the Star Spangl' Banner from the clubhouse over a system of amplifiers so that it will be heard all over the course. All persons on the links will be requested to join in the singing.

SUNDAY GAMES
Neenah 10, Appleton 2.
Little Chute 13, Menasha 0.
Green Bay 11, DePere 5.

LEADING NINES of the Little Fox River Valley League regained their batting eyes Sunday along with the warm weather and as a result smothered their rivals under the largest score of the season since the opening weeks of the league. All the winners were aided by several costly misuses and shoddy infield play by the losers.

Neenah found Lefty Kranzsch, who had held its league-leading slugging to four runs in 10 innings this season fairly easy, and the Appleton snuffpaw left the mound in the sixth frame with the score 6-1. However, poor play around third base and short assisted the Merchants. Five errors were chalked up against the Athletics in as many frames and at least two Neenah hits through the infield might have been stopped by faster fielding.

Kranzsch Leaves Neenah
Van Housen replaced Kranzsch and worked well, giving up only one run in the first three frames by errors, added four wins in its last chance at the plate. Neenah found the Appleton hurlers for eleven safeties and the Athletics aided with seven errors. Fahrtenkrug allowed Appleton seven hits while fanning six men, the two Appleton runs coming in separate frames. Appleton called in the ninth, but a sensational running catch by the Neenah left fielder of J. Bruggeman's potential double and a lightning double play at third and second halted possible scoring.

E. Bruggeman and Kriz had two hits each for Appleton. Eddie Gulickson led Neenah with a double and two singles in four hits and brothers Luby and Henry had two hits each.

Little Chute had no trouble beating a cupped Menasha team, which had new men in several positions 13-0. Michalkewicz hurled good ball but his support of the very weakest type. In one frame three attempted Chute sacrifice bunts went for hits when Menasha infielders failed to cover their backs. Wildenberg found the single batters easy with snappy backing by his mates.

The second game of a double-header at DePere was called off because of the heat, but Green Bay took the opener 11-5, hitting Van Stratten hard.

KIMBERLY JUNIORS HAVE FINE RECORD

Play 4 and 4 Tie With Neenah and Defeat Appleton, 4 and 3

Kimberly—The William Verhagen Post team in American league junior baseball circles fast in taking on class under the daily instruction of Freddy Hackbarth. The Kimberly by association has shown very well in all of its practice games and its management is pleased with their showing to date. Friday afternoon the local boys went out and played a practice game with the Neenah Legion team, winners of the state championship last year and played great baseball although the game ended with the score 4 to 4. Darkness halted the fracas.

Sunday afternoon the Kimberly lads took the Appleton Legion team into camp by a 4 to 3 count. The game was a real exhibition of how baseball should be played and as the score shows the contest was close and very interesting.

The boys to make the Kimberly squad are two first string pitchers who also catch when not working on the mound, Vincent and E. Vandevy. Both of the boys are right handers and have plenty of ability. Williams pitched the Neenah game, while Vandevy pitched the Appleton game. Art Hoffman who also catches plays at short stop when not working the batters. Ervin Wilbergen covers the first sack, Timmer Vande Velden, second, Joe Vander Linden on the hot corner, Harry Dupford in the utility infielder. In the outfield are Captain Joe Menen in left, Patrick in center, and Vanden Heuvel in right. The boys who are playing the reserve roll are T. Lamers, G. Erier, R. Demarr, and Cletus Delister.

LEGION JUNIORS TO BATTLE NEW LONDON

Oney Johnston post junior legion baseball team will battle New London Juniors at 5 o'clock Thursday evening at Erb park, according to H. W. Miller, managing the club.

The game is one of a series of practice games the juniors are playing. Last Sunday the club indulged in a game with the Kimberly juniors at Kimberly and lost the decision, 4 and 3. The game was played in an hour and a half, both teams playing high class baseball. George Fredericks hurled for Appleton and whiffed 12 batters, walking three. The team again will play Kimberly the afternoon of July 4.

W HILE the fans sat and baked in the sun, the ball players prepared to play Monday afternoon's game with the Oshkosh Cards-Appleton game of the Winnebago league.

The Cards were returned the winners by a 10 to 6 score which kept the Oshkosh nine in second place in striking distance of the Tigers of North Fond du Lac.

Three mighty wallops, resounded off the bats of the local team, Paul Ditzel, hitting a home run with one on, Mike Fallon, clouting a circuit drive with two on, and Johnny Roth getting a trip way around the bases with two men on.

Hammen pitched for Appleton, but his offerings were to the liking of the Oshkosh club.

Golden for Oshkosh
Gelten worked for Oshkosh and while he was touched about eight hits, one or two of which were good sound knockers, he worked well and held the visitors in the tough spots.

Hartjes, catcher for the Appleton team, hit a triple and after a dash around the bases succumbed to the heat at third base. He was revived and a runner allowed to run for him. After a rest he finished the game.

Appleton scored first by showing a run error in the second. Golden followed with a run in the third and then swept into the lead to win.

One of the big features of the game was the playing of Mike Fallon around first base. Fallon covered the sack in great style.

O'DOUL SUSPENDED FOR FIVE DAYS, FINED

New York (AP)—Frank (Lefty) O'Doul's suspension has been fixed at five days by John Arnold Heydler, president of the National league.

The Brooklyn outfielder was fined $100 and suspended indefinitely on Sunday when he engaged in heated argument with umpire Bob Clarke. He will return to the Robins' lineup in time for the July 4 double header with the New York Giants.

Chapter 23
THE TELLTALE CHARM
BANKER DAYTON interrupted the sheriff's questioning of Ann. "Perhaps I can tell you better about Bruce, Sheriff Bolton. We—the First National Bank—sent Bruce, who is a clerk in the bank, to Camden to deliver some important papers to the president of the Farmers' National there. Our cashier, Mr. Campbell, made the arrangement. It was necessary that the papers be there before the bank opened tomorrow morning." Mr. Wilson, the bank teller, spoke: "I met some friends who came on the 7:40 train this evening, and I saw Bruce board it as it was pulling out." The sheriff turned to his deputy: "Scott, get me the president of the Farmers' National. Fuller is his name. The phone's in the hall." Mr. Dayton rose quickly. "Let me talk to him, Sheriff. If you question him about Bruce it might look strange, you know." "All right," the sheriff agreed, and Dayton stepped to the telephone. The others heard him place his call, then: "Is Mr. Fuller in? ... Hello, Henry! this is Ed Dayton speaking. I wanted to make sure you received those papers. ... Good. Bruce got them to you about nine o'clock, you say? ... Yes, we expect him home on the first train tomorrow. ... Oh, so our cashier phoned you just before Bruce's train left. Campbell phoned at 7:15, you say? ... "Thanks, Henry. Good night." As Mr. Dayton came back the sheriff said: "Well, that puts Bruce Carey in the clear all right. I'll talk with him in the morning, though. Now, Martin, tell us how you spent the evening." Martin asked tremulously, "Shall I start when I left the house with Bruce?" "Yes. What time was that?" "A little after seven o'clock. Bruce was going to take the train to Camden at 7:40, and as I had to go back to work on the books, we walked as far as the bank together. Then Bruce said 'Good-by' and went on down the street. I went into the bank and—"

"Just a minute. Did you go in through the front door, or by the side door?" "Oh, the side door. We always use that door after banking hours." "Do you carry a key with you all the time?" "I have for 40 years." Mr. Dayton added: "All the employees have keys to that door." "And who has the combination of the safe, Mr. Dayton?" The president answered reluctantly: "Mr. Campbell, Mr. Wilson here and Martin."

"Mr. Wilson, who locked the safe at the close of the day's work this afternoon?" "I did. Martin and I were together when I locked up. We were the last to leave." "Are you sure that the missing $25,000 was in the safe at that time?" "It was my business to know that the money was there. You see, we are only a small bank and such an item could not have been overlooked."

"After you locked up, you and Martin left the bank together?" "Yes, sir."

"You are positive there wasn't anybody left in the building?" "I think there was no one; I can't be absolutely sure of it. The side door opens into a little hall, which, as you enter from the street, is connected by an arch with the main room on the left. On the right, are the doors to the cashier's office and the president's office. When Martin and I left, I did not look into either of those rooms."

"Martin, tell us what you did after Bruce left you in front of the side entrance to the bank. First you unlocked the door and entered, I suppose?" "Yes, sir. Then—of course I locked the door again. Then I went to the vault and—"

"Did you stop in that hallway?" "No, sir, I had no reason to stop there."

"Where are the doors to the two offices off that hall open or closed?" "I couldn't say."

"What did you do with your cane?"

"My cane? Oh, certainly—I put my cane in the corner at the far end of the hall where I always leave it."

"The door to the cashier's office is close to that corner. You don't remember noticing whether that door was open or shut when you set your cane in the corner beside it?"

"I really did not notice, Sheriff."

"All right—go on."

"Where was I? Oh, yes—I opened the vault, got out my books and went to work."

"And when you finished work?"

"I put my books away in the vault, locked up and came straight home."

"Bring your cane with you?"

"Oh, of course, I always have my cane—it is in the hall out there."

"Now, Martin, did any one come into the bank while you were there this evening?"

"Positively no, sir."

"Wasn't the cashier in his office when you arrived at the bank, or didn't he come in while you were there?"

"I—I don't think so, sir. Now that you mention it, he might have been."

"Yeah—he might have been. The fact is he was. He was alive at 7:15 when he telephoned Fuller at Camden. He was found dead in his office at 9:30. He had been dead an hour at least."

"Bruce's train left at 7:40, so you must have arrived at the bank close to 7:20, and you arrived home about nine. Campbell was killed while you were in the bank. He was hit on the head with some blunt instrument. The $25,000 was in the safe when you and Mr. Wilson left the bank this afternoon. When we were there this evening, Mr. Wilson opened the safe and the money was gone. Martin, where is that Masonic watch charm the lodge gave you?"

The bookkeeper clutched his watch guard in sudden fright. "It's gone," he cried and looked piteously around as if stunned. "It wouldn't take a fortune for that sacred emblem!"

The sheriff extended his hand. "Here it is, Martin."

"You found it?"

He reached out to take the charm, but the sheriff closed his hand on it. "Thus must be your charm, Martin, because it has your name engraved on the back."

"Yes, it is mine. The members of our lodge gave it to me. Where did you find it?"

"I found it beside the body of the murdered cashier."

"I'm afraid I don't understand. Why—why are you all staring at me like that?"

The sheriff said quietly: "I'm sorry, Martin, but it is my duty to place you under arrest."

The old bookkeeper slumped down in his chair, Ann with a cry, put her arms about him.

The sheriff spoke to his deputy, "We'll take that cane too, Scott."

Through her tears, Ann appealed to the bank president: "Mr. Dayton—you're not going to let them take my father to jail?"

The bank president answered sadly: "If it were nothing more than the missing money, Ann, I could prevent it, but this is out of my hands. It is preposterous that your father should be suspected. When your husband returns, perhaps he—"

Ann interrupted with a startled cry. Then, with a pitiful attempt to cope, her confusion, "Yes, Mr. Dayton, perhaps Bruce can help when he comes home in the morning."

"Of course, it's just a horrible mistake," said the old actor, "but everything will be straightened out. I wish Bruce were here. Perhaps we'd better telephone him—perhaps he—"

"No, no," cried Ann, "you can't telephone. It's no use!"

"You do not understand, Father. Tony!" cried Ann again. "Frankly she drew the letter from her pocket. "Here, read this—Bruce—Bruce is not coming home in the morning." (Copyright, 1931, by D. Appleton and Co.)

BABSON SEES DEBT POSTPONEMENT AS BIG STEP FORWARD

Financial Expert Praises Hoover for Move Which Will Aid Upswing

Babson Park, Mass.—I wonder if readers realize what has happened since President Hoover offered to forego one year's payment on the debt which Europe owes the United States? The simple fact is that this $246,000,000 (the amount of one year's interest and sinking fund payment) has increased the value of our farm products, mineral products, and securities, over $5,000,000,000. This has all happened in less than two weeks' time. Commodity and security markets throughout the world were electrified by the announcement. Our own values of wheat, corn, cotton, copper, lead, zinc, steel, silk, and other basic materials rose abruptly. The rise in commodities coupled with the rise in securities has increased the value of the things more than $5,000,000,000, according to my best estimates. What interests me especially however, is the reason underlying this great increase in values. This week I shall try to explain that reason to my readers.

As I have often stated, periods of depression are not caused by lack of goods or money or people or work or any other material thing. Periods of depression are caused by people becoming abnormally selfish, when everyone from the office boy to the bank president is engaged in speculation, trying to get something for nothing and giving as little return as possible for the money received. This means that the real cause of depressions is spiritual rather than financial. Contrarywise, our next period of prosperity will come as people think less of themselves and more of the other fellow. President Hoover has started the ball rolling in the right direction, by getting us American people, for the first time since the World War, to think less of ourselves and more of the other fellow.

Nations as well as individuals are ruled by emotions rather than by statistics. It is the selfish attitude of the people of each nation toward other nations that causes world depression, war, and revolution. Similarly, selfish attitudes between nations make for world prosperity and world peace. We have long been known in Europe as "Uncle Shylock." We did not convert that role. At last we have abandoned it. Under Mr. Hoover's statesmanlike direction we have shown the world that American can be generous. The world has responded. Whatever the technical difficulties of putting the plan into actual effect, particularly in France, the great spiritual force behind the President's act will carry it through to successful conclusion. There may be modifications; there may even be relays; but France or any other nation cannot afford to be put in the position of blocking the plan entirely. In view of the enthusiastic world opinion that has been aroused.

The system of international debts is like a row of dominoes, with Germany at one end, the United States at the other, and France, England, Belgium, etc. in between. Never wanting or exacting reparations from Germany, our country was, nevertheless, placed in the position of receiving indirectly a large portion of these reparations. France, England, and other countries who owe us money have been passing on to us a large part of Germany's payments to them. Two weeks ago Germany had reached a financial, social, and political crisis which threatened the economic and political stability of the world. Under the Young Plan, Germany could have requested a moratorium on the "conditional" part of the reparations. The important thing is that the United States did not wait for her to do so, but by one more move knocked over the whole row of debt burdens for the period of one year.

Some objectors in France point out that their country will lose $100,000,000 more than it will save if the "unconditional" payments from Germany are postponed. The United States may well answer that she is giving up two and one-half times as much. In this light, France's argument will not appear strong before the world. The men of broader vision in France, moreover, recognize that she will gain in world trade and in increased prosperity more than she will lose.

Lesson For All

What this unselfish act has accomplished in a few days towards increasing values and pointing the way out of the depression is only a drop in the bucket to what could be accomplished if every wage worker, merchant, banker, and farmer would catch the same spirit. If employers will think more of their customers and less of their profits, if wage workers will think more of their employers and less of hours and wages, and if bankers will think more of their borrowers and less of interest and commissions, if farmers will think more of their consumers and less of Government aid, and if consumers and business men will think more of the farmers, we will have a return of prosperity. Just as the forward-looking, broad-visioned, unselfish attitude expressed toward Europe by our Government has started a most hopeful movement toward world recovery from depression, so will a similar spirit manifested by all our people aid greatly in our domestic recovery.

Two sentences in President Hoover's historic debt statement stand out as lessons to us all. First, "The purpose of this action is to give the forthcoming year to the economic recovery of the world." "It will also help free the recuperative forces already in motion in the United States from retarding influences from abroad." Second, "I am suggesting to the American people that they be wise creditors in their own interest and be good neighbors." This sound advice should be heeded. We must think not alone in terms of our own jobs, but in terms of the world's welfare. Our own hope of rising values and prosperity is bound up with world values and world prosperity, as the spontaneous rise after the debt announcement clearly shows. I am making no forecast about the stock market at this time. The bear market may be ended or it may not be ended. I, however, am willing to stake my reputation, based on thirty years' experience, that general business has seen its worst, even though the recovery will be slow.

Business by the Babsonchart now registers 29 per cent below normal compared with 10 per cent below normal at this time a year ago.

Lac Du Flambeau Region Recommended For Vacation

BY B. A. CLAFLIN

I get a great many inquiries every week asking for information on where to spend vacations to the best advantage; where all round outdoor sports may be indulged in; where the scenery is bold and beautiful; where the fishing is good; in fact, inquiries pertaining to every phase of summer outings.

I have traveled the Lac du Flambeau reservation from one end to another and often recommend it to those desiring the unusual in a vacation trip. This tract of land was set aside as an Indian reservation in the year 1853. It covers an area twelve by fourteen miles in extent in Vilas County. It is a natural playground of nature loving people. There are within its borders a hundred and twenty six beautiful lakes nestling for the most part in virgin forests. It is one of the regions in Wisconsin where Nature displays her loveliest handiwork.

The Lac du Flambeau reservation holds all the things that call to the lover of the great outdoors. It beckons those who would for a time take themselves away from the conventionalities of life to lose themselves among the forest folk; to breathe the clean, pure air of the open; to float the surfaces of its shimmering lakes; to take the game fishes awaiting their lures; and to return to the cities better fitted in every way to again take up the serious affairs of life.

The reservation has fifty miles of graded roads where you need not worry about taking the largest and best of cars. There are miles and miles of old Indian trails for horse-back riding and hiking. You can spend a week traveling through the lake region without a single postage. The beautiful lakes are all connected by thoroughfares. It is the land of the Trilling Arbutus and the home of the Little Princess Pine, scarcely known to outsiders.

Outside of the very good fishing to be found in the waters of the Lac du Flambeau country, and the grand natural scenery to be enjoyed at every turn, it is well worth a visit to anyone who is interested in viewing the pow-wows and other forms of tribal celebrations that are staged by the Chippewas at regular intervals.

There is much of interest to the tourist throughout northern Wisconsin, but I know of no region that offers a more diversified program than the Lac du Flambeau reservation, nor any assemblage of waters that contain more fighting muskies and gamey pike and bass.

It requires a drive of only about a hundred and fifty miles from points in the Fox River valley to bring one onto the reservation. The best routes are highways 51 to Minocqua, or 26 to Eagle River and 76 from there for a few miles west. In this country the days may be warm but the night are always cool and delightful.

HOTEL RECEIPTS IN STATE 19 MILLION

Washington—(AP)—Hotel receipts in Wisconsin in 1929, including 268 hotels in operation the full year and 98 of the resort type in operation from two to eight months, totaled approximately $19,000,000, it was revealed today in returns from the 1930 census of distribution, U. S. department of commerce.

A total annual business of $17,307,000 was reported by the 268 hotels running the full year and the resort hotels reported receipts of $1,855,000. Reports were gathered only from hotels having 25 or more guest rooms.

Hotels in operation throughout the year reported an expenditure of $4,280,000 in salaries and wages to an average number of 5,553 full-time employees of which 2,114 were men and 3,239 women. Resort hotels reported payment of $433,000 in wages and salaries.

The resort hotels listed 5,268 guest rooms and a dining room seating capacity of 10,216. Forty-five of these hotels reported 75 per cent or more of their patronage as transient, nine the same percentage of permanent, and 44 reported patronage mixed.

Operators of 133 of the year-round hotels reported 75 per cent or more of their patronage as transient, 22 the same percentage as permanent, and 113 reported their patronage as mixed.

Of the resort hotels, 13 were owned corporations and $5 by individuals and partnerships. Sixty-five of the hotels operating the year round were owned by corporations, while 203 were owned by individuals or partnerships.

MANY BADGERS IN HIGH POSTS IN U. S. ARMY

New Appointment Places Wisconsin Man as Major General

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington—With the promotion last Wednesday of Colonel Irving J. Carr of Wisconsin to the rank of major general and the post of chief signal officer of the army, the Badger state, which usually tends toward pacifism, becomes outstanding in high Army circles.

The chief of staff, the present chief of one department of the Army, and the assistant chief of another, were all appointed to West Point from Wisconsin. And now General Carr joins those in high command. Chief of Staff General Douglas MacArthur was sent to West Point from the fourth congressional district of Wisconsin by Rep. Theobald Otjen in June 1939. He graduated at the head of his class.

Major General Samuel Hof of Bos-cobol, chief of Ordnance, was appointed to West Point in 1930 by the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette; and Brigadier General Henry Conger Pratt, assistant chief of the Air Corps, was sent to West Point 31 years ago by Senator John C. Spooner from Wisconsin-at-large.

General Irving J. Carr, who has succeeded the retiring Major General George S. Gibbs, was born at Chippewa Falls on May 29, 1875.

Gets Commission
He received his commission as second lieutenant in the Infantry on July 9, 1898, and has spent a great part of his 33-year army career in active service, much of the time in battle, in the tropics.

His first station was at Fort McPherson, Ga., but the following year he went with his battalion to the trenches east of Manila in the Philippine Islands. He was on front line duty there for two months and then accompanied an expedition up the Rio Grande river and took part in the thrilling capture of Luis Candaba and Santa Ana. He was also personally engaged in action near San Luis and San Fernando.

In 1900 he became commanding officer at San Carlos, Philippine Islands. He has served longer in these islands than at any other post. In 1902 he returned to this country for a time but went back to the islands in 1903 and in 1904 participated in several expeditions against hostile Moros.

Other tropical assignments were at Matanzas, Cuba, and as chief of staff of the Hawaiian division. He served with the American Expeditionary Forces from November, 1917, to June, 1919, in France and in Germany. He was permanently transferred from the Infantry to the Signal Corps in 1920 and was serving as assistant director of the Army Industrial college at the time of his recent promotion. He has never served at a Wisconsin post.

Gets Appointment
Another appointment, official though not military, of the past week in Washington was the naming of Dr. Clarence E. Carter, professor of history at Miami University, Ohio, as editor of territorial papers of the government, effective on August 15. Dr. Carter took his master's degree at the University of Wisconsin in 1906. His new job will consist of collecting and editing the official papers of the territories of the United States.

Livestock seems to thrive in Dane-co, for there were more mules, hogs, horses, chickens and cattle in that county in 1930 than in any other of 40 counties which save for wide barren spaces in seventh, eighth, ninth and eleventh congressional districts, are pretty generally scattered about the state. On the other hand, Vilas-co is not so good for animals of domestic trend. It has the lowest number of hogs, horses, cattle and chickens and tried hard for the bobby prize in mules, with a grand total of 10. However, Iron-co with

Tries Speed Flight

In seven days, flying 18 hours in every 24, J. A. Mollison, above, expects to establish a speed record between London and Australia. The 26-year-old Australian, an air mail pilot, has flown 3,500 hours in Australia without mishap.

one lonely mule outdid it in this respect.

In 1930, according to the Farm census, these 40 counties which form practically half of Wisconsin's 81-county state, had 4,383 mules, 337,936 horses, 439,305 hogs, 7,199,571 chickens, and 2,102,975 cattle on their 2,531,434 acres of farm land.

Even leading the state as it did, Dane-co had fewer horses, cattle and hogs in 1930 than it had 10 years before. Iron-co also had a solitary mule in 1930, perhaps the 1930 mule is the 1920 one just ten years older. In Vilas-co, despite its place at the bottom of the list, mules increased, from 9 to 10, and cattle and chickens increased during the decade.

Dane-co High
The total value of these farms, both for lands and buildings, equalled $955,074,270. The highest value $76,329,052 was found in Dane-co naturally as that county had the largest acreage, 710,214 acres, but the lowest value $1,731,757 was found in Florence-co whereas Vilas-co had the smallest acreage, 37,301 acres.

Generally throughout these counties save in six, Dunn, Florence, Clark, Adams, Washburn and Bay-field, the value of farm buildings has increased considerably during the past five years despite decreases in farm land values in almost all of them. Of the six in which building values have decreased, only Adams-co registered more than a minor decrease.

Farm dwellings alone, neat, attractive and excellently built in Wisconsin, were valued at more than $6,000,000 in each of 11 of these counties. Dane-co leads in the value of farm homes with a total of $13,842,145, but is closely followed by Dodge-co with $13,130,495. Waukesha is third with $10,053,948 and Clark—where barns aren't so valuable, Washington, Walworth, Sauk, Barron, Polk, Waupaca and Dunn follow in order. The homes in Dunn-co on farms are valued at $6,080,620.

Captain Fred T. Neville of Rice Lake, Wis., graduated from the Quartermaster Corps school in Philadelphia, Pa., Thursday in a class of 46 officers. The Assistant Secretary of War Frederick H. Payne, and the Quartermaster General Major General John L. DeWitt journeyed to Philadelphia from Washington to speak and present the diplomas.

Many Uses For Milk
Wisconsin's dairy cows may not know it but in all probability some of the warm white milk which they give and which young Wisconsin farmers splash expertly into shiny pails, will find itself—somewhat changed or riding about high in the air with Wisconsin's Lindy.

The department of agriculture, which is always seeking new uses for agricultural products and has saved millions of dollars and great amounts of materials because of its discoveries. This commodity is used in making billiard balls, fountain pen cases, and water-proof glue which is used in airplane fuselages. An important project now under way is the attempt to use materials such as cornstalks, straw and other plant waste in the production, by fermentation, of heating and illuminating gas.

Colonel George R. Green, Field Artillery, of Milwaukee will return to his home about June 30 and will be retired, the War department announces.

First Lieutenant Wilmer Carrett Wainwright, Chemical Warfare Service reserve, will be ordered to active duty about July 14. He will go from his home in Green Bay to Camp Custer, Mich., for training. He will be relieved from duty in time to return to Wisconsin about July 27.

Six machine guns can be carried by a new single-seater fighting plane recently tested in England. It will do 200 miles an hour.

ASK INDICTMENT OF 2 ON MURDER CHARGE

Carlton, Minn. —(AP)—Indictment of two young men on first degree murder charges is to be asked of a special grand jury to convene here Wednesday, two weeks after the two had a gun fight in a local restaurant with officers.

In the fight, Charles Welch was killed, and Bert McFarland, Carlton marshal, was seriously wounded. The young men Ed Foster, 25, Lady-smith, Wis., and Clarence Gillespie, 20, Riverton, Minn., were arrested. Foster says he escaped from the Milwaukee House of Correction on May 8, after serving part of a burglary sentence. Officials say the pair has admitted 30 burglaries in this section.

Welch, alias Clarence Wilson, 65, was first believed to be a man wanted at Cass Lake, but this was disproved and authorities have not learned his residence.
